Terrible Railroad Accident in Wales—Seven Persons Killed Outright and Eighteen Burned Alive to Ashes—Discovery of a Plot to Assassinate Queen Victoria in Switzerland—Arrest of the Would-be Fenian Assassin.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

GREAT BRITAIN.

LONDON, Aug. 21.—Dispatches were received to-day giving the particulars of a heart rending calamity in North Wales yesterday afternoon, whereby twenty-five persons lost their lives. A train of cars from Holyhead, containing passengers and mails from Ireland, which was proceeding towards Liverpool at the usual rate of speed, met with a sad accident to-day at the town of Abergele, Denolgha county. A long train of loaded petroleum trucks had just been switched off on a siding to make way for the Irish mail, but the switchman had neglected to replace the switch. A dreadful collision was the consequence. Seven persons, all passengers in the Irish mail train, were killed outright and many others badly injured. The cars in both trains were reduced to a shapeless mass by the concussion produced by the explosion of petroleum, which instantly enveloped both trains in flames. Before the fire could be subdued eighteen persons had been literally burned alive to ashes.

He has been committed to prison to await a requisition from the British authorities.

Crops in Alabama.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

MOBILE, August 21.—There is no improvement to notice in the crops. Accounts from the country continue bad.

—At Canton, New York, on Thursday, John Kennedy was executed for the murder of Thomas Hand, in August, 1867. He met his fate with apparent indifference. He was condemned to be hung in November last, but on the morning of the day a stay of proceedings was served upon the Sheriff, and he was further respited. Hand, who was murdered, lived for many years in dread of death by violence, and admitted no one even to an acquaintance except Kennedy. He had a sum of money in his possession, but lived in a miserable manner in order to avoid giving any one any inducement to murder him.

—One of the Grant and Colfax electors for Alabama, and a distinguished rebel officer during the war, writes that the Democrats will make desperate efforts to carry that State, and that the election will cost a thousand lives. Meetings have been held in his locality, and resolutions passed ostracising himself and other Republicans, and prescription is carried so far that the rebel druggists refuse to sell them medicines and grocers to sell them food. Nevertheless, he thinks they will carry the State by a handsome majority.

—The new fraud of putting false heads in whisky barrels has been discovered by the Internal Revenue officers in New York and other cities, and will be suppressed. The Government has been cheated out of a great deal of tax money in this way, as the same false heads with the stamps on it could be used on hundreds of barrels.

GRANT AND COLFAX.

Mass Meeting in the Sixth Ward, Allegheny—Tremendous Outpouring of the People—Able Addresses by L. P. Stone, Esq., Maj. A. M. Brown and Thomas M. Bayne, Esq.

Never before have we seen such a tremendous outpouring of the loyal masses at a ward meeting as there was at the meeting of the Republicans of the Sixth ward, Allegheny, at the corner of Locust street and Beaver avenue, last evening. There were young men and old, rich and poor, from the counting-room and from the work-shops, and not only was every class of society represented by men whose votes will be counted in November next with the millions which will be cast for the nation's favorite, General Grant, but there were a number of ladies present, which is always a credit to a political meeting. The Germania Turner Band, which is one of the best in the city and every member of which will vote for Grant, Colfax and the entire Republican ticket, were in attendance and discoursed excellent music at the opening and close of the meeting and during the intervals between the speeches.

The meeting was called to order by Mr. B. F. Jennings, who proposed the following gentlemen as officers of the meeting:

President—Hon. Jno. E. Park.

Vice Presidents—W. F. Frimble, Louis Peterson, Jr., Jas. A. Hutchinson, George Black.

Secretaries—Cyrus Townsend, and J. E. Stevenson.

Judge Park on taking the Chair thanked the meeting for the honor conferred upon him by calling him to preside. He then introduced Prof. Pope, who favored the meeting with a song entitled "The U. S. Race," which was enthusiastically received by the immense crowd.

L. P. STONE, ESQ.

The Chairman then introduced L. P. Stone, Esq., who addressed the meeting at considerable length. He was pleased to see so many persons present. He wished to say, however, that our success did not depend so much upon speeches and meetings as upon personal responsibility and local organization, and he was happy to inform the audience that the ward organizations were being perfected rapidly. The speaker referred to the object for which the meeting had assembled, and said that no doubt the desire of every man present was to elect General Grant to the Presidency, but it was quite evident that his election would not be satisfactory to the Democrats and rebels. It was the dissatisfaction at the election of Lincoln, the best man who ever occupied the Presidential chair, that produced the late rebellion. The rebels desired the election of Seymour, and if he was fairly and honestly elected he wished the people to remember that it was their duty to quietly submit. If such a misfortune should befall the country, which the speaker thought very improbable, if we could take Frank Blair's letter as an indication of the intentions of the rebels and Democrats, we might expect them to attempt to turn out a loyal Congress and fill their places with rebels whose hands were red with the blood of Northern men. The speaker continued for some time and his remarks were listened to with marked attention by the audience. At the close of his remarks, Prof. Pope was called upon and entertained the meeting with a song entitled "A Democrat in Search of Votes."

MAJ. A. M. BROWN.

The Chairman then introduced Maj. A. M. Brown, who said:

The same blood-stained rebels who assembled at New York on the 4th of July last, were the men who were arrayed against the Government during the rebellion, and their hands were still reeking with the blood of the sons, brothers and fathers of the North. The question before the people in this campaign was whether the red-handed, blood-stained rebels, who had murdered Northern men during the war, should rule the Government, and those who had stood by the Government in her peril, should be cast aside as unworthy the confidence of the American people. No man had ever received a nomination like that of Gen. Grant, not even Lincoln himself. There was not even a voice raised against him. He had the honor to represent the Twenty-second District in that Convention, and he had there met men from the South who, if their arms were off were not shot off with union bullets, but but looyal Union soldiers from the South whose arms were shot off with rebel bullets, and all sent up a united voice for Grant. How was it at New York, with that set of men who desecrated the fourth of July, the natal day of the nation's independence, by assembling in Tammany Hall. There was Forrest, Bonham, Wade Hampton, Vallandigham, and others of that character. New York was the paradise of rebeldom, and they had nominated there a traitor as a candidate for the Presidency. While rebel cannon balls were ploughing up the earth in Pennsylvania, this traitor was inciting a mob in New York to rebel against the laws of the nation. The speaker then turned his attention to the financial question, and disposed of it in a most admirable manner. He then took up the labor question, which he said was all a clap trap to catch votes. The men who were making the most noise about the matter were men who were after a fat office. Prof. Burt, he said, had never troubled himself about laboring men until he became an aspirant for office. The speaker closed after a beautiful peroration, urging upon all to go to the polls and vote and see that their neighbors did likewise.

Prof. Pope was again called upon and favored the audience with another song.

COL. T M. BAYNE.

The Chairman then introduced Colonel Thomas M. Bayne, who addressed the meeting in an able and eloquent manner. The speaker said he was glad to see so many ladies present. It was indicative of an orderly meeting. He had just been up street to the rebel meeting; there was no ladies there, and the crowd was very disorderly. He then took the questions at issue between the Republican party and the rebels, and handled them in a very able manner. He said there were no new issues before the people. There might be side issues, but he was not afraid to meet them fairly. The great issue was the same which had been decided by the ballot in 1864 and by the bayonet in 1865. All peace loving, law-abiding and orderly disposed people hoped that they had been settled, but they were again called upon to once more decide them at the approaching election. It was not Northern Democrats who nominated Seymour and Blair, but the rebel Generals who led the traitorous hosts against the starry flag during the late rebellion, and it was upon them he said the party depended for its brains. The speaker was listened to throughout with the greatest attention, and loudly applauded at the close of his remarks.

After music by the band Prof. Pope, whose campaign songs are of the very best, was again called upon and rendered "The Two Copperheads," which was enthusiastically received and applauded.

GRANT CLUB.

The Chairman of the meeting then announced that a meeting of the Republicans would be held at the School House this evening for the purpose of perfecting the organization of the Grant and Colfax Club.

The meeting then adjourned with three cheers for Grant and Colfax and the whole Republican ticket.

PITTSBURGH STEEL.

Interesting Experiment—Testing a Cast Steel Boiler.

A few weeks ago we published tabular statements of the strength of specimens of boiler plate made by Pittsburgh manufacturers, as determined by Mr. Benjamin Crawford, Special Agent of the Treasury Department, in the Washington Navy Yard. One of these, a steel plate of the grade denominated "homegeneous metal," made by Park, Brother & Co., showed a tensile strength of over ninety-one thousand pounds—nearly one-half more than any iron plates in competition with it, and its flanging properties were also pronounced superior. The best competing specimen was called iron, but was really a low grade of steel.

To prove still further the superiority of their steel for boiler making, Messrs. Park Bros. & Co. determined to test one of their boilers a l'outrance by carrying up the usual hydraulic test to the bursting point. A boiler made by Caroll & Snyder was submitted to this test, yesterday afternoon, at their yards, in the presence of a large concourse of engineers and others, who evinced a deep interest in the experiment. The boiler was of medium diameter,—thirty-eight inches—and made of quarter-inch plates, double riveted with steel rivets. To it were attached one of A. Fulton & Son's pressure gauges and a force pump by which water was injected into the already filled boiler, so that a pressure of several hundred pounds was quickly reached. As the gauge approached six hundred pounds, the gasket, or leaden joint, by which the manhole is stopped, began to leak freely, and water also spurted in the form of spray from the seams, until it was found impossible to maintain the pressure. The circumference of the boiler was now found to have increased an inch and a quarter by the stretching of the plates. The leaks mentioned having been partially stopped three more trials were made, thus more severely testing the boiler by their repetition. By the last of these a pressure of 665 pounds was reached without producing any further effect than to cause the boiler to swell in a manner that strikingly exemplified the ductility of the material of which it was made, it being now expanded two and a half inches in circumference. There were no signs of the plates giving way at the rivet holes, where they are necessarily weaker than any other part, the whole strain being thrown upon the part remaining between the holes. Making allowance for this the tensile strain on each square inch of steel was 67,386 pounds. How much more it may stand can only be ascertained by further trials. These are to be made soon, when another force pump will be used which, it is thought, will be able to burst the toughest boiler ever made here or perhaps anywhere else. If ever such boilers explode it will only be through the criminal carelessness of those having them in charge. Their use is a near approach to absolute security.

Our Model Police System.

EDITORS GAZETTE: Permit me to call the attention of the Gas Company, and also the tax payers of this city, to the manner in which our present police attend to lighting up their beats. The writer has noticed that since the present administration came into power there has been scarcely one night in the month that all the city lamps have been lighted, and on many occasions there are from fifty to a hundred throughout the city not lit up, but for which the city is taxed. Yet I do not know that the Gas Company save much by these lamps not burning, for the reason that a number of beats are often lit up an hour before time. I would not mention this matter, were it not that I see the negligence of the police is increasing daily.

On Thursday evening a boy of about fourteen years undertook to light up the beat which runs from Mechanic street to Carson in the Tenth ward, but although he commenced at a quarter before seven, (by the way, about one hour too soon,) at eight o'clock half of the beat was in darkness. The boy was drunk, and after turning on the gas in several of the lamps without being able to light them, he gave it up. Between eight and nine o'clock some small boys climbed the posts and lit the lamps. I have on more than one occasion seen beats, where the officer did not go on duty that night, in total darkness until nearly ten o'clock, when the Sub. who was put on it would light up. Is there no remdy? or will we have to put up with this until February next?

A Conversation about Bonds and Greenbacks.

The following, from the Norwich Bulletin relates a bit of true history, and is interesting in more ways than one:

"The following conversation took place in the counting-room of one of our friends a few days since. A prominent Democrat, a man of strict honesty in his private life, has just put the following question, some discussion having preceded it:

"Well, Mr. A., let us drop all political antagonism and argue this question on its merits. Upon what ground can you maintain that one hundred gold dollars shall be paid upon a bond for which the government received only fifty, unless the exact letter of the law demands such payment?'

"Mr. A.—'That question is easily answered, and I will give you a case in point. You know old Mrs. C., our neighbor, whose husband died in 1859, and for whom I am trustee. Her husband left her the house she occupies and about $10,000 in money, the income of which is all she has for the support of herself and her sick daughter, who is now dying of consumption. As soon as I could collect the sums due her husband I invested the whole in a mortgage at seven per cent. interest, due in five years. The notes became due in 1864, when the price of gold was 190, and I was forced to take my my pay in legal-tender notes, and I again had to look around for an investment. The interest on the mortgage having been paid in currency, the old lady had been very much straitened for the past year, and I concluded that in order to meet expences she must have her interest in gold, and that even then she would lose, as I had lent her money before the war at seven per cent., and could now only get six per cent. on the Five-twenty bonds, but I took them.'

"Yes,' said the Democrat, 'but you took them at less than sixty in gold value.'

"Mr. A.—'On the contrary, Mr. D., the government borrowed old Mrs. C.'s ten thousand gold dollars by force, when it forced me to take its demand notes in settlement of the mortgage on which I had lent the gold, and these demand notes bearing no interest, and although due on demand, being nothing more nor less than failed paper, I gave the government an extension by subscribing them for Five-twenty bonds. I got ten thousand dollars of the bonds, and by so doing I got no more and no less than the original capital, and when I ask the government to pay me ten thousand dollars in gold, I ask no more than the payment of what I had in 1859. If you now force me to take greenbacks, which are worth only 70 cents in gold, for my bonds, I shall get $7,000 and the government will have confiscated $3,000 of old Mrs. C.'s property.'

"'Well,' said the Democrat, 'I am not responsible for the legal tender act; your Republican Congress made the law and forced Mrs. C. and me to take the notes.'

"Mr. A—'Yes, you and party are responsible; you refused to subscribe for the bonds you impeded the government, you rendered aid and comfort to the rebels in every way that you knew how to, without risking your necks—your mob leader, Seymour, brags that he never subscribed a dollar to a loan and never owned a bond—and so you made it necessary for the government to collect a forced loan or give up to the rebels.'

"'Well,' said the Democrat, attempting to dodge, 'Mrs. C.'s case is only a solitary one; most of the bonds were subscribed for by men who made their money in the rise in prices—shoddy men and such.'

"Mr. A.—'Indeed, are the active business men among your acquaintances large owners of bonds, or were they subscribers? You know better. You know that your savings banks hold a large amount, you know that your insurance office has its funds in bonds, and you know that the men in active business, the shoddy men least of all could not spare their money from their business, except a few like our neighbors H. & Co., who made it a point of honor to subscribe for every loan.'

"The Democrat—'Why don't you go to work and take up your greenbacks; your failed paper as you call it.'

"Mr. A.—'That is what we mean to do: we know that greenbacks are the people's money, and when we have elected Grant, we mean to make them as good as gold, and we intend to do that by burying your rebel repudiators and mob leaders out of sight and hearing.'

"Here the conversation ended."

A WASHINGTON telegram says: The negotiations of Seymour men, resulting in a partial promise from the President to support the Democratic nominations, were managed by Col. Van Buren, of New York, and another gentleman from the same city, whose name has not yet transpired. One of the President's strongest Democratic supporters in the Convention, with persons of his own party, to-day asserted that no dependence could be placed in Mr. Johnson's late promises of support to Seymour, and that he had no real desire or intention to aid the party.

SAMBO AND HIS DEMOCRATIC FRIENDS.—While the Democratic candidate for the Vice Presidency, goes about the North berating the freedmen as "semi-barbarous blacks," "idle vagabonds," "degraded beings," and an "alien race of semi-barbarous men," the Richmond Enquirer, Charleston News, Charleston Mercury, Mobile Advertiser, Macon Telegraph and other rebel sheets are filled with appeals to the emancipated slaves to support the Democratic Party on the ground that it "is their best friend."

THERE is in the whole State of Indiana not a Republican who supported President Johnson in 1866 who has not now turned his back in the most emphatic manner on the Democratic party. If the Republicans without their aid carried Indiana two years ago by fourteen thousand majority, how can the Democrats, now that the Conservative and Radical Republicans are thoroughly united and fighting the common foe with the utmost enthusiasm, expect anything but an overwhelming defeat in that State.

CHILDREN ON THE SHORE.

We are building little homes on the sands,
  We are making little rooms very gay,
We are busy with our hearts and our hands,
  We are sorry that the time flits away.
O why are the minutes in such haste?
  O why won't they leave us to our play?
Our lessons and our meals are such waste!
  We can dine very well another day.

We do not mind the tide coming in—
  We can dig it a cunning little bed,
Or leave our pretty house and begin
  Another pretty house in its stead;
We do not mind the sun in our eyes
  When it makes such a dazzle of the world,
That we can not tell the sea from the skies,
  Nor look where the flying drops are hurled.

The shells that we gather are so fair,
  The birds and the clouds are so kind
And the winds are so merry with our hair—
  It is only the People we mind!
Papa, if you come so very near,
  We can't build the library to-day;
We think you are tired of being here,
  And perhaps you would like to go away.

There are just one or two we won't refuse,
  If they come by to help us now and then,
But we want only friends to be of use,
  And not all those idle grown men;
Perhaps, if we hurry very much,
  And don't lose an instant of the day,
There'll be time for the last lovely touch
  Before the sea sweeps it all away.

O children—thus working with the heart!
  There's nothing so terrible as rest;
Plan only how all may take a part;
  It's easy for each to do his best.
The sea, sweeping up at set of sun,
  Can never make your toil be in vain;
It covers the thing that you have done,
  But the joy of the doing shall remain!

GUSHING GIRLS.

The Round Table of last week has a Saturday Review article, from which we take the following extract:

The gushing girl, then, is to be thin and addicted to moonlight, which always arouses in her a tendency to bask and swell with unutterable thoughts, to gaze fixedly on some bright particular star, to sigh profoundly, and to quote largely from some very sweet poet, Lalla Rooke being usually preferred—"I never loved a dear gazelle," etc. Sunset, also, has on the gushing girl a remarkable effect; and twilight she adores. The hooting owl, the chirping katydid, the swooping bat, all the innumerable sounds of summer evenings, wrap her soul in a sort of celestial ecstacy, and generally lure her into fresh fields and pastures new of unquoted and lovely verse of the most melancholy description, wherefrom she commonly derives great consolation and a cold in the head. As we have intimated, she is partial to poetry, without, however, often venturing within the sacred precincts of composition; although almost always she has a friend, a sweet female friend, who writes the loveliest poetry you can possibly imagine. Novels she reads, of course, but only those of a very lugubrious description, where everybody is indescribably miserable for three volumes, and the hero and heroine are satisfactorily killed at last, locked in each other's arms. Yet with all this tendency to the melancholic in literature, the gushing girl is rather good humored in her ordinary workaday aspects, is rather happy than otherwise in her domestic relations, and is usually blessed with a most intrepid appetite.

If to other women a new baby is a wellspring of incoherent pleasure, to the gushing girl it is a perfect fountain of idiotic delight, and plunging her into an absolute epilepsy of admiration, until she fairly foams at the mouth with delirious eugolistic nonsense. In much the same spirit she makes it a point to fall head over ears in love with the fat and rather uninteresting tenor, and raves wildly about the handsome but not embarassingly intellectual tragedian, and has photographs of him in all his principal characters; does her thinking, or whatever mysteries she may substitute for thinking, in the most exaggerated superlatives and spells language hyperbole. She is frank to a fault, and within an hour after introduction will have gushed forth to you the entire story of her woes and disappointments, her yearnings and aspirations. She is a weak, clinging flower, she tells you, torn and crushed by cruel blasts, and she comes to you for comfort and protection, which if she is pretty, as she not unfrequently is, you are not loth to give her. If she sings, it is always some plaintive little ballad of despair and death in a minor key, like "Fair, fair with golden hair, under the willow she's sleeping," and she plays occasionly with much feeling and freedom an etheralized and very much mixed up version of "The Dead March in Saul." But she greatly prefers the harp to the piano, because it is so much more romantic, and so much more patronized by the poets, and because, as she sits by it with backflung curls and upturned brow, she has the opportunity of comparing herself to St. Cecilia; or, to one of those very wingy musical seraphs of religious art. Lovers, of course, she has in plenty, because every one takes her fancy—and every man does who is at all dark, and has any pretensions to be considered a good-looking person—is briskly elevated in her fervid imagination from a desirable and possible to an actual adorer. Whether he cares for or even knows her, is a matter of the purest indifference; all the same he serves her purpose of setting the frame whereon she shall shape her fantastic ideas. When the actual love does come and the edge is a little worn off the novelty, he finds her not very different from other girls in a similar predicament, and she is amazed to find that the all-important question settled in the most common-place way imaginable, without a single vow or any allusion to two hearts, etc., or two souls, etc.; without so much as suggesting a single appropriate quotation. From this amazement she never fully recovers, and, from the day of her marriage, or, at least, from the end of her honeymoon, her gushing days may be considered fairly over.

Or, at any rate, the disease takes a different form. On her babes and her husband usually overflow the surplusage of her emotional utterances, and moonlight and weeping willows are held of very little account. That is, if her marriage be happy; if not, she commonly develops into that peculiar style of marital querulousness whose chief joy in life consists in imparting to the world what trials one's husband and children are, and what a meek and uncomplaining martyr is one altogether. The gushing girl who doesn't marry is the amiable old maid whom everybody knows, with spit-curls and the sacred memory of a lost love. She reads poetry still, but quotes it less, takes great interest in the amatory entanglements of her younger friends, and is generally just as jolly and charming an old maid as one could wish to have. Take her all in all, from first to last, the gushing girl is by no means the worst of girls, and her ill-balanced enthusiasm is certainly preferable to that well-bred indifference which can find time in the midst of a proposal to estimate the amount of a lover's probable income.

UNIVERSITY OF WSTEROO.—Although only beginning, Wooster University is able to-day to buy out many of our Western concerns. There is already a fund for endowment of $120,000; for building, $65,000. These are actual figures, representing real property, cash and sound notes, and do not include $100,000 or more, which is about half promised, and more than half sure, for endowing Professorships.

A "STUNNING" LOVE LETTER.

The following is sublime, and we recommend it as a model letter to writers:

My dear Miss F.—Every time I think of you my heart flops up and down like a churn dasher. Sensations of unutterable joy caper over it like young goats over a stable roof, and thrill through it like Spanish needles through a pair of tow linen trowsers. As a goling swimmth with delight in a mud puddle, so swim I in a sea of glory. Visions of ecstatic rapture, thicker than the hairs in a blacking brush, and brighter than the hues of a humming bird's pinions, visit me in my slumbers; and bore on their invisible wings, your image stands before me, and I reach out to grasp it, like a pointer snapping at a blue-bottle fly. When I first beheld your angelic perfections, I was bewildered, and my brain whirled around like a bumble bee under a glass tumbler. My eyes stood open like cellar doors in a country town, and I lifted up my ears to catch the silvery accents of your voice. My tengue refused to wag, and in silent adoration I drank the sweet infection of love as a thirsty man swalloweth a tumbler of whisky punch.

Since the light of your face fell upon my life, I sometimes feel as if I could lift myself up by my boot straps to the top of the Presbyterian steeple, and pull the bell rope for singing school. Day and night you are in my thoughts. When Aurora, blushing like a bride risen from her saffron couch; when the jaybird pipes his tuneful lay in the apple tree by the spring house; when the chanticleer's shrill clarion heralds the coming morn; when the awakened pig ariseth from his bed and grunteth, and goeth for his morning refreshments; when the drowsy beetle wheels his droning flight at sultry noontide, and when the lowing cows come home at milking time, I think of thee; and like a piece of gum elastic, my heart seem to stretch clear across my bosom. Your hair is like the mane of a sorrel horse, powdered with gold; and the brass pin skewered through your waterfall fills me with unbounded awe. Your forehead is smoother than the elbow of an old coat.

Your eyes are glorious to behold. In their liquid depths I see legions of little Cupids, bathing like a cohort of ants in an old army cracker. When their fire hit me upon my manly breast, it permeated my entire anatomy like a load of bird-shot would go through a rotten apple. Your nose is from a chunk of Parian marble, and your mouth puckered with sweetness. Necter lingers on your lips like honey on a bear's paw, and myriads of unfledged kisses are there ready to fly out and light somewhere, like blue-birds out of a parent's nest. Your laugh rings on my ears like the wind-harp's strain, or the bleat of a stray lamb on a bleak hill-side. The dimples on your cheeks are like bowers in beds of roses, or hollows in cakes of home-made sugar.

I am dying to fly to your presence and pour out the burning eloquence of my love, as thrifty housekeepers pour out hot coffee. Away from you I am as melancholy as a sick rat. Sometimes I can hear the June bugs of despondency buzzing in my ears, and feel the cold lizards of despair crawling down my back. Uncouth fears, like a thousand minnows, nibble at my spirits, and my soul is pierced through with doubts, as an old cheese is bored with skippers.

My love for you is stronger than the smell of Coffy's patent butter, or the kick of a young cow, and more unselfish than a kitten's first caterwaul. As the song bird hankers for the light of day, the cautious mouse for the fresh bacon in the trap, as a lean pup hankers after new milk, so I long for thee.

You are fairer than a speckled pullet, sweeter than a yankee doughnut fried in sorgum molasses, brighter than the topknot plumage in the head of a muscova duck. You are candy kisses, raisins, pound cake, and sweetened toddy altogether.

If these few remarks will enable you to see the inside of my soul, and me to win your affections, I shall be as happy as a woodpecker on a cherry tree, or a stage horse in a green pasture. If you cannot reciprocate my thrilling passion, I will pine away like a poisoned bedbug, and fall away from the flourishing vine of life, an untimely branch; and in the comimg years, when the shadows fall from the hills, and the philosophic frog sings his cheerful evening hymns, you, happy in another's love, can come and drop a tear and catch a cold upon the last resting place of

EDUCATIONAL.

The Central University—A Card from Mr. Cornell—How a Poor Boy can Pay for his Education.

SIR: The numerous appeals which I am receiving from young men for assistance to enable them to pay their way while obtaining an education at the Cornell University, impel me to reply through the Tribune. I would inform all who may desire the information that, in organizing the University, the trustees aimed to arrange a system of manual labor which, while it would be compulsory, upon none, would furnish all the students of the University with the opportunity to develop their physical strength and vigor by labor, the fair compensation for which would pay the expenses of their education. Students will be employed in cultivating and raising, on a farm of 300 acres, the various productions best suited to furnish the college tables. These will include live stock for producing milk, butter and cheese, and to be killed for meat; grain for bread, and vegetables and fruits of all kinds suited to the climate and soil.

Mechanical employment will be given to all in the machine shop of the University. This will be equipped with an engine of 25-horse power, lathes, planeing machines for iron and wood, and all the most improved implements and tools for working in iron and wood. Here they will manufacture tools machinery, models, patterns, etc. The erection of the additional buildings required for the University will furnish employment for years to students in need of it. There will also be employment in laying outgrading, road-making, and improving and beautifying the farm and grounds of the University. The work done by students will be paid for at the current rates paid elsewhere for like services.

The work will be done under the supervision of the professors, and competent superintendents and foremen. It will be the constant aim of the trustees and faculty of the University to render it as attractive and instructive as possible, and especially to make it conducive to the health, growth, and physical vigor of the students, besides affording them the means of self-support and independence while receiving all the advantages of the University.

With such combined facilities for instruction and maintenance, all the expenses of a first class faculty and of tuition being paid by the endowment, I trust that no person who earnestly desires to be thoroughly educated will find difficulty in becoming so by his own exertions at the Cornell University.

We already have students who entered three months in advance of the opening of the University to avail themselves of the opportunity to earn two dollars a day "through haying and harvest, and thus make a sure thing of it." Such boys will get an education, and will make their mark in the world in their use of it.

In conclusion I will assure the boys that if they will perform one-fourth as much labor as I did at their ages, or as I do now at 60 years of age, they will find no difficulty in paying their expenses while prosecuting their studies at Ithaca.

Yours respectfully, EZRA CORNELL.
ITHACA, N. Y., August 10, 1868.

Girard College.

This institution was not the subject of a favorable report at the recent meeting of the Society for the Advancement of Science, held at Chicago. A paper was read developing the plan for the resuscitation of the Cincinnati Observatory, established in 1842, and upon the death of Prof. Ormsby M. Mitchell allowed to fall into partial decay and total disuse. Prof. Vander Weyde, formerly of Girard College, but now of New York, then said that he was pleased to hear of this renewed interest in science, but he could not avoid at once urging the necessity of carefulness in the manner of conducting the new institution, and of stating the facts concerning a backsliding. He had followed Prof. Bache in the Girard College, and found it given over to politics to that extent that its usefulness was not only impaired but gone, at least in great part. The magnetic observatory at Girard College, built without iron, was used for a carpenter shop, fallen wooden nails being replaced with iron ones, and the meteorological instruments being carelessly stowed away in the closet where the servants stowed their brooms and rubbish. He had soon retired from his professorship in consequence, and returned to New York.

PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, FRIDAY, August 21, 1868.

The general markets present but little that is new or important. We can report a fair demand for most of the leading articles, and with a fair volume of business, in the aggregate, prices have undergone no important changes.

BUTTER—There is a steady demand, and we can report regular sales of prime to choice fresh packed at 33 to 35c.

In Barley there is not enough doing to establish quotations; dealers are offering $1,70 to $1,75 for prime Spring.

GREEN APPLES—Continue to arrive very freely and the market is dull and prices are weak and drooping; we continue to quote at $3 to $4 per bbl.

New York Dry Goods Market.

By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

NEW YORK, August 21.—There has been a more general break in prices of Printed Calicos, which has imparted more animation to the market; Americans, Allens, Richmonds, Gloucester and Narragansetts have all been reduced to 13½c: Arnolds and Freemans Brug at 11½c; Briggs at 11c. The Pacific and Cocheco are steady at 14c while Spragues and Merrimac are held at 14½c and are likely to remain at these figures. The break in heavy Brown Sheetings is not conceded by agents and the goods must advance soon, most assuredly therefore, country buyers had better order goods by telegraph at once. In other Cotton fabrics there is no particular change to observe and a good trade is expected soon. Woolen goods are more animated: and prices rule steady. Silk ribbed in narrow widths are also in active request and firm, with only a small stock offering.

RIVER NEWS.

There is nothing new in river matters at this point, nor is it likely that there will be until navigation has been resumed again, of which there is but little prospect at present.

—John Robinson, jun., advertises the circus boat Coosa for sale in the New York Clipper.

The R. C. Gray is loading at Cincinnati for St. Louis, and the Maggie Hays is up at the same place for New Orleans.

—Captain Ben Chipley, in former days a popular boatman in the Illinois River trade, but for some time past disconnected with river interests, has returned to his first love, and been assigned to the command of the Naples packet Big Horn.

—The Dubuque Herald, of the 16th, says: A fleet of 700,000 feet of lumber arrived here yesterday for Ingram, Kennedy & Day, in four days' time, from the foot of Lake Pepin. The raft left Wabashaw Tuesday morning, and reached here yesterday forenoon. It was piloted down by Jack McCaffrey, and made the quickest time on record.

—The Board of Directors of the Mississippi Valley Navigation Company were to meet yesterday at the Louisville Hotel, Louisville. Members from New Orleans, Memphis, Chicago, St. Louis, Madison, Jeffersonville and Louisville were to be in attendance, the most of whom arrived on Tuesday. The officers of the Company are: J. Ed. Montgomory, President; Newton S. Otis, Secretary; James Bridgeford, Treasurer; D. DeHaven, Superintendent; John B. Davies, Chief Engineer.

—A St. Louis telegram under date of Wednesday says: The river continues to decline. Freight is abundant on the Missouri, and the tunnage unequal to the demand. There are fifteen thousand sacks of grain on the banks of the Mississippi, and the warehouse full, awaiting transportation to St. Louis. The Commonwealth left for New Orleans this morning. The Kellogg, with three barges, containing, 100 tuns grain, &c., left for New Orleans last night. No other departures or arrivals outside the regular packets. The City of Alton leaves to-day for Memphis; the Julia for Vicksburg.

—The Paymaster of the Kentucky improvement Company, who had been out on the road from Greensburg, Ky., known as Hudsonville road, to pay the laborers, was attacked by four men on Saturday last, who demanded his money. He answered their demand by pulling his revolver and firing, the ball striking one of the robbers in the hand. The others set on him, beat him badly, and after securing about $1,500, fled. The robbers were persued a short time after, and two of them captured, one of whom confessed after pulling hemp a short time. The others were surrounded, and are probably in limbo by this time. The Paymaster was badly hurt, but is able to attend to his dulies.

—Com. W. J. Keuntz has contracted with William Satta, of Elizabeth, for a new stern-wheel steamer of the following dimensions; length of keel, 175 feet; length on deck, 190 feet; beam, 40 feet; hold 4½ feet. The machinery will be of Hartipee & Co's. Patent Wodvator Condensing Engines on the plan of the steamer Dictator, Quckstep and Great Republic; the small engines 12 in diameter, and the large ones 26 in diameter, 5 feet stroke, 2-38 in double flue. Boilers 24 feet long. The machinery will contain the latest and best improvements. She will be built under the superintendence of the Commodore, who has had large experience in that department, having constructed a number of the most successful boats on our western waters. She is built expressly for a mountain steamer, and will be ready for service on the opening of navigation in the spring.

—We clip the following from the Cincinnati Gazette, of Thursday: Capt. Frazier, of the Nightingale, yesterday signed the contract organizing the Express Line for St. Louis for the coming season's business. This contract will go into effect so sooh as there is a good stage of water in the Ohio river, and has now received the signatures of the Captains of all the boats in the line, viz: Melnotte, Capt. James Keniston; Nightingale, Capt. J. Alex. Frazier; Champion, Capt. W. A. Gregg; Anna, Capt. O. P. Shinkle; Shamrock, Capt. Geo. W. Cullom. Besides the provisions, heretofore published by us, it designates that the days of departure from Louisville shall be Wednesdays and Saturdays, which will put the boats out of Evansville on Mondays and Thursdays of each week. Rates are to be the same as those fixed by opposition boats, when there are any receiving. The line has also concluded an arrangement with some of the Wheeling packets to prorate freight through to St. Louis from that point.

—The same paper also says: We heard last evening that the former owners of the the Potomac had purchased of the United States Mail Line the splendid steamer Major Anderson, to take the place of the former steamer in the Wheeling trade. No particulars have transpired.

◆

IT IS gratifying to observe the unanimity with which the German voters in all quarters are uniting in opposition to BLAIR and SEYMOUR. In Missouri, they are against the Democratic ticket, almost to a man. In Ohio, in the interior of New York and in New England, the German vote will be more decidedly Republican than ever, and similar reports come to us from nearly every Northern State. This class of our adopted citizens are ever friends of peace, and they detest the shameful dishonesty of Repudiation.

◆

THE ADDRESS to the voters of Pennsylvania, from the Republican Committee, which we print in another column, deserves the thoughtful perusal of every voter. It presents in a concise form the only substantial issues of the canvass. The real question is one of Peace and War; all other considerations are secondary to this. The people are not to be amused by the electioneering trick, which aims to divert them from its contemplation, by fictitious allegations against the financial integrity of the Government. Were that the issue, the facts and figures would soon dispose of it forever. The real issue is this—are we to have any Government at all? Aim for the bull's eye, boys! Don't waste your powder upon anything else!

◆

WE DESIRE to return hearty thanks to Mr. WALLACE, the Head-Centre of Pennsylvania Democracy, for the very handsome manner in which he sent one of his hired men to entertain us last night. A gentleman who went to Cleveland in '64 to help nominate FREMONT, because ABRAHAM LINCOLN was not Radical enough in his abolitionism, but who is now supposed to have accepted a moderate stipend from the Democratic funds to abuse his old Radical friends this year, interested us exceedingly. In acquitting, as he did, the Republican party of any desire to introduce negro suffrage in Ohio and Pennsylvania, he was so candid and truthful as to excite some suspicions of his fidelity to his present employers. But we are free to say that his numerous misstatements of fact completely effaced the transient favorable impression created by this admission. Our impression of his effort, taken as a whole, was that he was exactly the politician to champion any description of Repudiation, or any amount of Clearfield ballot box stuffings, naturalization swindles, or other Democratic outrages and murders.

THE SOUTHERN SITUATION.

Evidently, our Republican friends must soon address themselves to the duty of organization in the Southern States, and adopt some more effective measures to counteract the efforts, made by the rebel Democracy to control, very little by persuasion and very much by coercion, the colored vote, or the results of their elections in November will be far from satisfactory. It may be that a strong reliance is justly to be placed upon the Radical prepossessions of the freedmen, but we are convinced that this will be largely overbalanced by the thoroughly organized system of compulsion and terrorism with which the Ku-Klux-Democracy are already counting upon securing their majority, in every reconstructed State.

Reports from all sections of the South multiply daily, and all concur in representing the Democratic tactics, for driving the colored vote into their support, as prevailing universally, and justifying the suspicion that a much greater success will attend them than our friends would be glad to admit.

The objects of this system of terrorism are not to be gained by any premature manifestations of the submission of the freedmen. HAMPTON, FORREST and other leaders care little for mass meetings of Democratic negroes now; it is their policy to avert suspicion and to conduct their canvass through the quieter and more effective agencies of Ku-Klux-Klans, and by the proscription of laborers who refuse to accept the politics of their employers. This is a policy which will tell its story for the first time at the polls, and the time for a remedy will then have gone by.

There is danger that these men will attempt to run an Electoral ticket in Virginia, Texas and Mississippi, but the danger from their universal but secret system of intimidation and proscription in the restored States is still greater, and it is that which requires the close and immediate attention of our friends. Any attempt to force an equal participation by the populations of the former States, in that election to which they are not legally parties, can and will be met and frustrated in due course of law, but the other scheme, which proposes to bribe or dragoon the dependent freedmen into an unwilling vote for SEYMOUR and BLAIR, by cajoling them with pledges never to be redeemed, or menacing them with the loss of employment and consequent starvation, is, at this moment, without doubt, completely inaugurated in every State between the loyal North and the Gulf.

If that programme is to encounter no resistance except such as the freedmen themselves, aided by the limited white Union sentiment of the South, may be able to organize; if the canvass of those States for Grant and Colfax and Peace is to be wholly neglected by the friends of the Union at the North, we may rely upon it that some the electoral votes of the reconstructed States will be needlessly lost to us. This result must inevitably follow, if the elections are suffered to go by default. Let some one tell us what efforts are making to avert this? We are curious to know.

The remedy for this state of things may be applied by the legislatures of those States, or, if need be, by Congress. We do not indicate the precise direction this legislation should take; it is enough to insist that the exercise of such improper influences over the voter in Pennsylvania, or any of the Northern States, would be found to be capable of prompt and effective correction by our lawmaking authority, and that the same authority can be appealed to in the restored States as well, to prevent or punish the subornation or intimidation of voters. If the legislation of Georgia, or the Carolinas, as it now stands, shows a failure to provide against this class of outrages upon the freedom and purity of the ballot, the local laws should be amended forthwith. In this way, and by other legislation such as the case may demand, each of these States may, practically, and with the utmost propriety, defeat the rebel Democratic programme.

In Tennessee, alone of all the former slaveholding States, the authorities seem resolute to deal promptly and vigorously with the rebel spirit of intimidation, and the loyal Governor and Legislature are plainly entitled to the sympathy and approbation of loyal men everywhere. The storm which has been aroused, by the proposition in that State to put down the illegal rebel organizations by the strong hand, proves the indispensable necessity for precisely such measures. We hope that our friends there will neither be wheedled nor frightened into giving up the policy which they have proposed. And we should be glad to chronicle the adoption of the same sort of legislation by the loyal authorities of the restored States. The remedy for an imminent danger is with them, rather than with Congress. Time flies, and the sooner the situation is grappled with, the better for them, for us, and for the Union.

STATE POLITICS.

The Republican nominations for Congress in the twenty-four districts of Pennsylvania are very nearly complete. We append the list, showing but few vacancies, which will be filled very soon:

Dist.		Dist.
1.	B. L. Berry.	13.	*Ulysses Mercur.
2.	*Charles O'Neill.	14.	John B. Packer.
3.	*Leonard Myers.	15.	———
4.	*William D. Kelley.	16.	John Cessna.
5.	*Caleb N. Taylor.	17.	*D. J. Morrell.
6.	———	18.	W. H. Armstrong.
7.	Wash'n Townsend.	19.	*G. W. Scofield.
8.	———	20.	———
9.	O. J. Dickey.	21.	*John Covode.
10.	*H. L. Cake.	22.	J. S. Negley.
11.	Daniel Kalbfus.	23.	Darwin Phelps.
12.	———	24.	J. B. Donley.

*Re-nominations of present members.

We are not positive that Mr. KALBFUS has been nominated in the first district, but it is understood that he has no Republican competitors. In the XXth or Meadville district, Hon. H. C. JOHNSON was nominated by the conferees, but as his name had not been considered in the primary meetings, his selection being the result of a failure of conferees to make a choice among the candidates regularly before them, there seems to be a quite general dissatisfaction among Republicans, and a new conference is likely to be held. The county committees of Crawford, Venango and Mercer, three of the four counties composing the district, have appointed the new conferees, but Clarion refuses to concur in the movement, and unites with the friends of Mr. JOHNSON in denouncing the later action of the other county committee, as unauthorized. The objections to Mr. JOHNSON, if we correctly understand them, rest rather upon the fact that he was not known as a candidate before the primary meetings in the several counties, than upon any decided exceptions to his ability and Republican fidelity. Moreover, having accepted the first nomination and not now withdrawing, he remains regularly in the field as the candidate of record. We aim only to allude to the prominent facts, without taking any part in a very unpleasant controversy which has sprung up, engrossing the attention of local Republican journals and seriously threatening, if the difficulty is not soon adjusted, the loss of the district. It gave FINNEY 1,884 majority in '66, but, with two Republicans running this year, the election of BOLE, the Democratic nominee, would be assured. As long as Clarion refuses to accede to a new Conference, Mr. JOHNSON will seem to be entitled by right to retain his place. His withdrawal voluntarily is a matter purely within his own discretion, and dependent upon his views of duty to his party and to his friends.

WORDS OF TRUTH AND SOBERNESS.

Two years ago the writer of the following letter, Hon. GEORGE M. WESTON, of Bangor, Maine, was the Democratic candidate for Congress in the fourth district of that State. The writer has been and still is opposed to the reconstruction policy of Congress, nevertheless he is evidently an honest and sensible man, as are many of the members of that party, notwithstanding the treason and madness of the leaders. The letter was written to a friend in North Carolina, and the extract below was very properly published for the consideration of the people down there. We commend it to the calm consideration of honest, reflecting Democrats up here. It is just such a document as Republicans can use with good effect in their friendly discussion of the great issue now pending with their Democratic friends and neighbors:

"This reconstruction policy of Congress, strenuously as I resisted it, and obnoxious as it is to you, is an accomplished fact. The effects of it may be modified by events, and the policy itself may be softened, with the gradual subsidence of the passions connected with the late struggle, but overthrown it cannot be, except by revolution and another civil war, and the issues of the pending Presidential canvass are so made up as to present the question, necessarily overshadowing all others, whether the country is ready for so desperate an attempt as that, for any grievances which exist."

Mr. WESTON then quotes from BLAIR'S Broadtop letter and WADE HAMPTON'S explanations, of the manner in which the resolutions at New York were made to declare the reconstruction acts "revolutionary, unconstitutional, null and void," and adds:

"The assumption of the Democratic platform, that the reconstruction acts are 'null and void,' has no shadow of fact or law to rest upon.

"Congress may not have exercised power wisely, but their rightful authority in the premises is clear and unquestionable, and those who denounce their acts as 'null and void,' and counsel revolutionary resistance to them, are either thoughtless persons who know not what they do, or bold and bad men, fatally bent on mischief. It is not in this second civil war, into which Mr. Blair and the Democratic platform seek to entice them, that the Southern States will find a remedy for the evils which they suffer. White immigration from Europe and the North which peace and quiet will invite, the higher ratio of natural increase of whites as compared with blacks, the diminution of the number of the disfranchised resulting slowly but surely from deaths, and the early removal of disfranchisements which is assured by such movements as we have just had reported from the Legislature of Georgia will before long change the whole face of affairs. The antagonism of races will itself cease, when political contests cease to turn upon issues connected with the relative rights of races. The policy of Mr. Blair, on the other hand, tends directly and inevitably to band and consolidate the blacks into a phalanx impenetrable upon every front. I see unredeemed mischief in it, in all its aspects. The flag with which he marches at the head of the Democratic column is the black flag of discord and civil war for the country, and of a war of races for the South. The mass of his misguided followers are honest and well-intentioned, but it is none the less true that he is leading them in a broad and straight road to ruin.

"My hope is that the sober and discreet men of the South, whose counsels, like yours, would have saved it from the late war, will now avail to save it from this infinitely worse war, at once internal and external, portended by a new revolution, not so much originating in your section where the justifying grievances are alleged to exist, as instigated by political calculation elsewhere—a strange revolution, indeed, in behalf of Southern rights, in which the warmest men are the men of the North, who are seeking, not the redress of wrongs, but the gratification of their lust of power, at the hazard of the ruin of the country."

This gentleman's views of the issue as presented in the New York platform, in the letters of BLAIR and the speeches of HAMPTON and other leading members of that Convention, coincide precisely with our own as repeatedly expressed in these columns. Well and truly does Mr. WESTON say—speaking of FRANK BLAIR, who is the nominee and representative of the rebel wing of the party, and the most potential—"The flag with which he marches at the head of the Democratic column is the black flag of discord and civil war for the country, and a war of races for the South. The mass of his misguided followers are honest and well-intentioned; but it is none the less true that he is leading them in a broad and straight road to ruin."

CHICAGO has an access of stirring excitement in recent developments of the "cattle disease." As long as it was confined to their railway drove-yards and exported thence Eastward, it gave them but little concern. But the citizens have just discovered that the milch cows of the city and vicinity have taken the contagion and that a considerable number of the dying and dead animals have been butchered for beef and retailed in every part of the city. They have less to say about New York now, and every citizen looks into his own soup-kettle.

SAID a leading Democrat in a speech in Washington City on Thursday night: "If the votes of the excluded States are not counted at the Presidential election, I and those who agree with me, will wade in blood to see them counted." Those who agree with him are the SEYMOUR and BLAIR Democracy. If that were the whole of their programme, it might be frustrated without great difficulty, but it is not the whole. Their scheme includes the most elaborately comprehensive plans for a reign of terror throughout the South, the intimidation or murder of Union men, white and black, and the nullification by armed force of Federal and State Laws, in the restored as well as the unreconstructed States. For example, from Alabama, a friend of the Union, but who served with distinction in the rebel army, writes that the Democracy mean to carry that State in that way "if it costs a thousand lives." That's what SEYMOUR, BLAIR and the Democratic platform means!

THE Chicago Journal appears in new and very neat type, with decided improvements in its "make up." Expressing its appreciation of the cordial support which it has achieved from the public, it reminds us to say of that great city that, with all the magnificent praises which have been claimed for it, one of its most conspicuous merits has never yet been properly alluded to; we refer to the liberality and discriminating taste with which its citizens know how to support good newspapers.

IT IS within the range of possibility that the Pacific railway may be so far completed, as to admit the transit of trains throughout its entire length, within six months from this time. Extraordinary efforts are made, by each of the companies, to outstrip the other in reaching Salt Lake, and the junction is likely to be effected at a date much earlier than has generally been anticipated.

NEW CASTLE, PA.

Republican Meeting—Speeches from Messrs. Grow and Donley.

[Correspondence Pittsburgh Gazette.]

NEW CASTLE, August 20, 1868.

Shenango Hall was crowded last night to hear Galusha A. Grow and the Republican candidate for Congress in the Twenty-fourth District, Captain J. B. Donley. Mr. Donley kept the audience interested for two hours in a lively speech on many topics relating to the issue at stake, at the close of which the Glee Club sang a patriotic air suited to the times.

Mr. Grow followed, and was received throughout with loud and lengthy cheers. He dwelt mainly upon the financial questions, which was an admirable effort. The suffrage question was also alluded to, in which Mr. Grow warmed the Democracy. The gentleman kept his hearers in a good humor until a late hour. After the close of his speech the Glee Club made the welkin ring with the "Camptown Races," a well arranged campaign song.

Johnson and the Democracy.

Notwithstanding the attempt to conceal the negotiations which the New York Democrats have been carrying on with the President since Mr. Seymour's nomination, some of their adventures at the White House have come to light. To the first gentlemen who called on him shortly after the Convention adjourned, he was very curt telling them he had set their party on its feet, and in return they had thrown him overboard, and he could have nothing more to do with them further. In his own choice language, he asked them to say "to Mr. Seymour and the whole 'World' set, that he had been informed they had been from the first secretly in favor of impeachment, and now they might one and all go to hell, as far as he cared." And with this the first interview ended. There have been several others, and finally, during last week, these gentlemen reported here and in New York that the President had been brought around, and would now help in the coming campaign. They made some grand promises as they tell their friends, but their nature has not been ascertained.

MONTGOMERY BLAIR addressed an assemblage of ex-Confederates at Alexandria on Thursday night. As reported in the Alexandria Advertiser (Democratic,) he said, "he had differed with them in believing that their rights were to be sought in the Union, but in looking at the present posture of affairs he was almost inclined to think that he had been wrong and the people of Virginia had been right. But he did not believe the people of the North would permit this Radical rule to continue. The people of the North knew that in the liberty of the South was bound up their liberty, and thus would rid themselves of Radical rule. He had been a Union man, but he had never been of those who abused Lee and Johnson and the other Generals of the Confederacy. The people of the North knew that the people of the South were patriotic. There had been cause for the resistance of the South; if the people of the North had not seen it before, they begin to see it now; and it was for the future, in its developments, to say which side was right.

THE true position of the Democracy is clearly demonstrated in the following little incident which occurred at Grafton, West Va., last week, at the Democratic State Convention. Mr. George H. Pendleton, the great embodiment of Democracy, made a lengthy and vigorous speech, setting forth the principles of the party, its objects, etc., and concluded in his best style. After leaving the platform, he was accosted by a one-armed man, who stepped up to him and said: "Mr. Pendleton, allow me to congratulate you on the excellence of your speech. I can well appreciate it, as I lost this arm in defense of the principles you advocate," at the same time holding up to view the stump of his arm. "Ah," said Mr. Pendleton with a bland smile. "Yes, sir," said the ex-soldier, "I lost that arm while fighting in the Southern army against the abolition Government." Mr. Pendleton walked off rather confused, but the soldier reflected his sentiments truly.

THE Democracy propose to get rid of the debt and taxation by repudiation and war—the latter remedy the very cause of our burden. General Grant, in his letter, lays down the following rule to effect the same end: "Peace and universal prosperity—its sequence—with economy of administration, will lighten the burden of taxation while it constantly reduces the national debt."

ADDRESS,

From the National Union Republican Committee.

ROOMS OF THE REPUBLICAN
STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE,
PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 18, 1868.

To the Voters of Pennsylvania:

Within sixty days you are to decide at the polls upon the principles and general policy that are to control the administration of public affairs for the next four years. On the result hang the grave questions of the peace and good order of society, the prosperity of the industrial interests, the development of the resources of the country, the integrity of the Union, and the guarantees of liberty.

In the outset of the contest the party that for four years paralyzed the arm of industry, by loading it with a burden of twenty-five hundred millions of debt, involved the country in civil war, and threatened the destruction of the Union and the overthrow of Liberty, solicits your suffrages declaring that it has no principles to advocate or measures to support, and calls upon its followers everywhere to defend nothing. With nothing in its history for years worthy to be defended, it is the part of wisdom not to make the attempt; for it has manacled the freedom of the press, crushed out liberty of speech and brutalized the public conscience in fifteen States. It ostracised every man who had the courage to declare human bondage a sin against God and a flagrant violation of the spirit and genius of the Republic. It waged a cruel war against the pioneer settlers of the Territories and covered the prairies of Kansas with murdered heroes, because they preferred freedom to slavery. It established a reign of terror, and made the residence of men faithful to the principles of the Declaration of Independence impossible on more than half of the territory covered by the flag of a common country. Defeated in its efforts to elect a President of its choice, it appealed to arms to nullify the decision of the ballot-box. In the struggle it laid a million of brave men in untimely graves, shrouded the nation in mourning, and flooded it with tears. Such are the ghastly testimonials of what the Democracy has done in years past.

No thanks to that party that to-day we have a country to love or a Constitution to revere! It did all in its power to destroy both.

And now it again seeks power, through discord and civil strife. For four years, during the height of the nation's peril, the only hope of the party for success was in disaster to our arms. Hence it rejoiced at every Union defeat, and mourned over every Union victory.

Its candidate for Vice President declared to the convention that nominated him, that "we must have a President who will execute the will of the people by trampling into dust the usurpations of Congress known as the reconstruction acts. * * I repeat, this is the real and only question which we should allow to control us. It is idle to talk of bonds, greenbacks, gold, and the public credit, * * * I wish to stand before the convention upon this issue." Thus was he nominated, and Wade Hampton advocating the ticket, before an audience in South Carolina, declares "that the cause for which they fought, and for which Stonewall Jackson died, will yet be gained in the election of Seymour and Blair."

If this party can succeed at the ballot-box, the work of reconciliation for four years will be undone, and the priceless sacrifices of four others will have been made in vain.

The issue is marked and well defined: Grant, Colfax, and Peace; or, Seymour, Blair, and War. GALUSHA A. GROW,
Chairman State Central Committee.

IS YOUR DISEASE RHEUMATISM!

Many persons, supposing they are suffering from this disease, have applied Linaments, Plasters and other Rheumatic Remedies without obtaining any relief, when in fact the cause of pain is a derangement of the Kidneys. These are small organs, but very important, and any obstruction or interference with its functions are indicated by pain in the back and loins, languor and weakness, difficulty in avoiding and unnatural color of the urine. A Diuretic should at once be resorted to.

THE BODY RENEWED.

According to Physiologists, the human body is renewed once in seven years. Every day, every hour, every moment, the flesh, the cartilage, bone and muscle of the frame are wasting away, and being imperceptibly replaced by new material. Health depends upon the nature of that material, and whether it shall be pure or diseased, full of vitality and elasticity, or feeble and flaccid, depends mainly upon the action of the stomach. In warm weather the waste of the system is very rapid, and if it is not as rapidly repaired by the great sustaining organ, the consequence is debility, emaciation and decay. It is, therefore, of paramount importance that the stomach be kept in a vigorous condition at this trying season, and the safest, surest and best tonic that can be employed for that purpose is HOSTETTER'S BITTERS. This incomparable vegetable stomachic gives unwonted energy to the digestive powers, promotes the conversion of the food into healthful blood, (which is, so to speak, the raw material of all the solid portions of the body,) and thereby puts the system in the best possible state of defence against epidemic or other diseases. The strong require it to keep up their strength; the weak, to re-invigorate them. It consists of the purest of all diffusive stimulants, charged with the juices and extracts of the most genial roots and herbs, and is a permanent restorative—not a mere temporary excitant. It acts simultaneously upon the stomach, the bowels and the liver, and is the best known remedy for dyspepsia, biliousness, costiveness and general debility.

CHRONIC DISEASES OF THE EAR.

In observations and notes taken by Dr. KEYSER, of this city, on the various diseases of the ear, he says that nine out of ten cases could be cured in their incipiency if application were made to some responsible and competent aural surgeon. The Doctor quotes from the opinion of Wilde, a well known aural surgeon, who says: "I fear not to reiterate the assertion which I made on several former occasions, that if the disease of the ear were as well studied or understood by the generality of practitioners, and as early attended to as those of the eye, it would be found that they were just as much within the pale of scientific treatment. * * Deafness is so common and so distressing an infirmity, and when of long standing so incurable, that we cannot too strongly urge all medical practitioners to make themselves familiar with the treatment of the diseases of the ear."

The Doctor says that nearly all annoying Discharges, Buzzings and Morbid Growths peculiar to the organ of the hearing, some of which had lingered through a score or two of years, can be cured or ameliorated by proper treatment.

IMPORTANT TO INVALIDS!

DR. J. W. SYKES,

Consulting Physician for

CHRONIC DISEASES,

191 Penn St., Pittsburgh, Pa.,

OFFER TO INVALIDS the advantages derived from over sixteen years of constant and EXCLUSIVE ATTENTION TO A LIMITED RANGE OF DISEASES, and an experience embracing many thousand cases.

☞ Invalids should bear in mind that DR. SYKES IS THE ONLY SPECIALIST IN HIS LINE OF PRACTICE IN PITTSBURGH. Other professed specialists treat all forms of disease, both acute and chronic, and therefore possess no special skill in any branch, and in lieu of it are compelled to resort to deceptive and sensational advertisements to procure patronage.

Dr. SYKES' specialty comprises all PULMONARY AFFECTIONS, and such other CHRONIC DISEASES as may produce or accompany LUNG DISEASES, viz:

Consumption, Nasal Catarrh,
Chronic Sore Throat,
Laryngitis, Bronchitis,
Asthma or Phthisic,
Chronic Pneumonia,
Chronic Pleurisy,
Diseases of the Heart,
Scrofula,
And all forms of Blood and Skin Diseases.
Dyspepsia,
And all affections of the Stomach.
Diseases of the Liver, Spleen,
Kidneys and Urinary Organs;
Chronic Diarrhea,
Costiveness, Piles,
And all Female Complaints.

DR. SYKES' MODE OF TREATMENT consists in selecting for each case the remedial means best adapted to its cure. Neither depending on any SINGLE remedy, however valuable, nor treating all cases according to a single idea or theory, he prescribes ALL the various means needed in each case, and combines them in such systematic manner as will make them work together, and contribute most efficiently to the restoration of health.

DR. SYKES' patients have the benefit of every new discovery and theory of value. His remedial resources include

Medicated Inhalations both of Vapor and of Atomized Fluids,

Together with Tonic, Cleansing and Regulating Medicines of unsurpassed efficacy, and Hygienic and Mechanical Remedies of great value.

Results of Dr. Sykes' Mode of Treatment.

CASE OF CONSUMPTION CURED.

ALLEGHENY CITY, PA., Aug. 10, 1868.

DR. J. W. SYKES—DEAR SIR: I consulted you in October, 1864, being then extremely reduced with Pulmonary Consumption. I had then been coughing eight months, had lost all my flesh, and had frequent night sweats, and other symptoms of advanced lung disease.

You yourself considered my case a very bad one, and told me my prospects of recovery were very slight; but I am happy to testify that your treatment did more for me than you promised, and has been the means, under Providence, of restoring me to excellent health. Truly yours,

SAMUEL A. MOORE.

ORANGE, MAHONING CO., OHIO,
May 22, 1867.

DR. SYKES: DEAR SIR: I desire to express my thanks to you for the interest you have taken in Mrs. Justice's case, and for the valuable assistance you have rendered her.

She is of a consumptive family, and when she consulted you that disease was most evidently established in her lungs, and was steadily advancing, but your treatment was the means of promptly arresting and removing it, and her general health is now better than it has been for years,

Respectfully yours,
MORRISON JUSTICE.

Dr. Sykes can refer to many such cases, but still would repeat that recoveries from advanced consumption are comparatively few; and those who apply to him in that period of the disease must not expect him to express strong encouragement.

CASES OF ASTHMA AND BRONCHITIS.

PITTSBURGH, PA., No. 104 LIBERTY ST.,
March 16, 1868.

DR. J. W. SYKES: DEAR SIR: In October, 1864, I consulted you for severe Asthma and Bronchitis, which I had from childhood. The Phthisic was so severe at times that I could only get my breath at night by sitting up, having windows and doors opened. I was also much troubled with Dyspepsia. Three months before consulting you, I was so much reduced that my family physician said I could not live six months. As I am of a consumptive family, and was so much reduced you did not speak very confidently of my recovery, but thought I might be benefitted and my life prolonged—I placed myself under your care and improved rapidly till my health was entirely restored, and I have since remained entirely well of my old ailments, and in good health every way. Yours, respectfully

MRS. MARY L. MCCANDLESS.

WHITE ASH P. O., ALLEGHENY CO., PA.
September 12th, 1867.

DR. J. W. SYKES, Dear Sir—I consulted you in the Fall of 1858, being then extremely reduced by severe Asthma and Bronchitis. I had consulted several Doctors, who pronounced me incurable, and said I ought to settle my affairs as I could not live longer than spring.

I had often sit in my chair nearly all night with windows raised, and even then could scarcely breathe enough to keep me alive. My cough was very violent, and I raised large amounts of yellow corrupted looking matter.

I adopted your treatment, and in two or three months I had gained, at least, thirty-five pounds, and since that time have enjoyed good health.

WM. STROUL.

DYSPEPTIC AND COMPLICATED CASES.

LUNDY'S LANE, Erie Co., Pa., March 26, 1866.

DR. J. W. SYKES, Dear Sir—Having suffered a year and seven months more than tongue can tell, with female complaints spinal weakness, heart disease, liver complaint and dyspepsia, I became so emaciated that all who knew me or saw me despaired of my life; my friends said medical aid could never restore me to health again.

It was about this time that I learned, through Mrs. R. Hunter, of your skillful practice and immediately wrote to you, and in the following month, January, 1864, I commenced your treatment and followed it six months. I commenced rapidly to gain, and at the end of the year instead of weighing sixty pounds, I weighed one hundred and fifty, and am now enjoying better health than ever in my life before. Yours, respectfully,

MRS. M. M. WRIGHT.

Mrs. Wright still resides at Lundy's Lane and can be referred to.

DR. SYKES also refers, by permission, to the following gentlemen, who have knowledge of his method of treatment:
Rev. S. H. Nesbit, D. D., Editor Pittsburgh Christian Advocate; Hon. W. C. M'Carthy, Mayor of Pittsburgh; Rev. Thos. Sproull, D. D., Allegheny City, Pa.; Prof. J. R. Newell and J. L. Dawes, Esq., 153 Wood street, Pittsburgh, Pa.
Office hours—9 A. M. to 4 P. M. No charge for consultation.

☞ Invalids who are unable to visit Dr. SYKES, can consult him by letter, as he treats many cases by letter with entire success. Address,

Dr. J. W. SYKES.

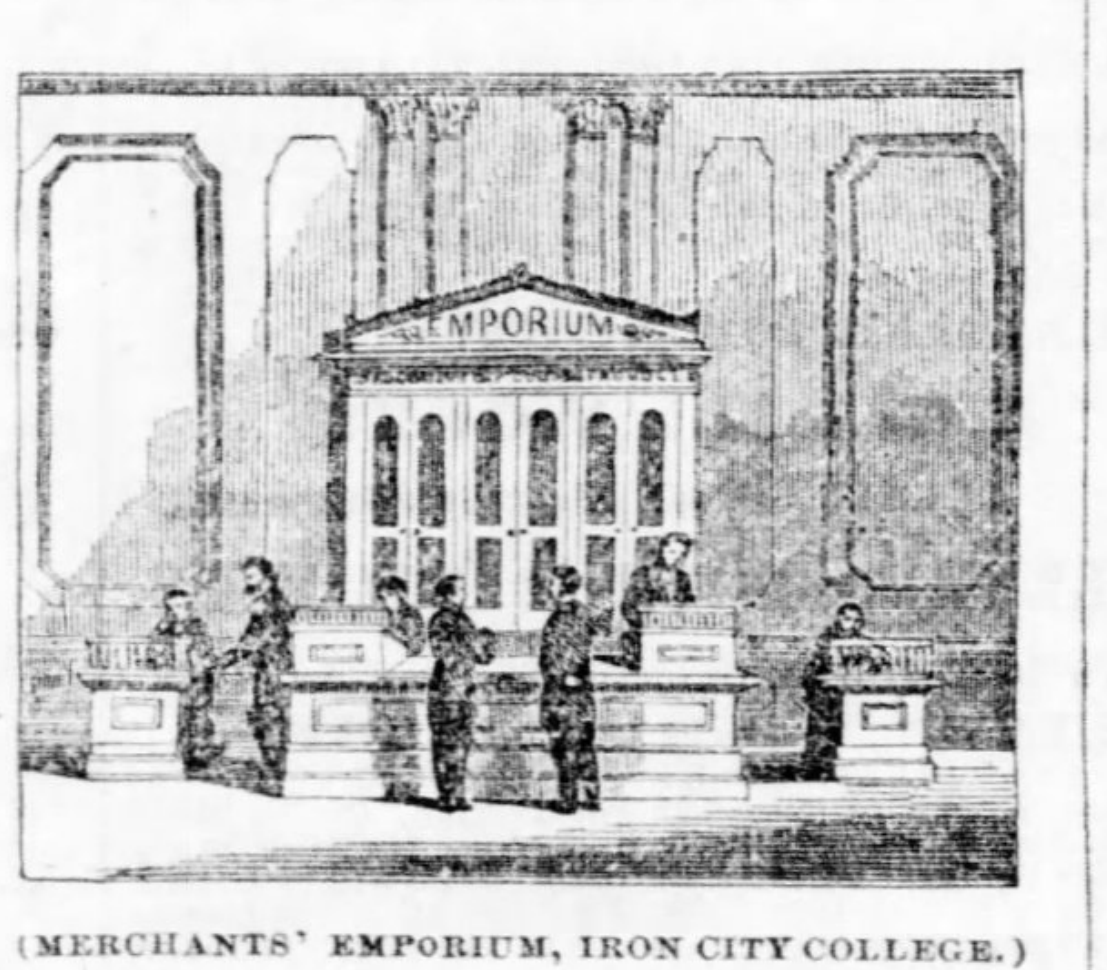
THE BANKING DEPARTMENT

Is the most complete thing of the kind in existence, and no other School in the country has anything in its line to be compared with it. Every department of practical Banking is here fully represented and carried into actual practice among the Students. This Department, which has been critically examined by the principal Bankers of the city, is pronounced by them the best system of practical instruction ever devised.

Commercial Book-Keeping

Is taught by means of a system of actual business transactions originating with the Students themselves, in which each is required to make out his own Bills, Invoices, &c., issue and redeem his Notes and Acceptances, draw and accept Drafts, keep an account with the Bank with which he has daily transactions, construct his own books of original entry, from which all others emanate, so that when his Books are completed they constitute the record of business transacted by himself, and that, too, on a veritable money basis.



(MERCHANTS' EMPORIUM, IRON CITY COLLEGE.)

THE MERCHANTS' EMPORIUM

Represents a large wholesale mercantile establishment, with which every Student has dealings, and which gives constant employment to several Students in the various capacities of Shipping Clerk, Bill Clerk, Corresponding Clerk, Cashier, Assistant Book-Keeper, General Book-Keeper and Business Manager. The business of the Department, which is extensive and complicated, requires for its successful management no ordinary amount of skill, and when the Student is once able to manage its affairs properly, he knows that he is competent for anything else in the line of practical Book-Keeping.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
FRIDAY, August 21, 1868.

The decline yesterday in gold was caused by the report that a lot of five million dollars of small gold was shipped to this country from England; the present rate of exchange would net about one per cent. on bankers bill and, from one to one and a half per cent. on commercial paper; to-day parties who had short sales uncovered began to buy, and rallied the market to 144¾, an advance of one and a half per cent., but towards the close the market became weak, and closed at 144¼, with a decided downward tendency. The heavy shipments of bonds and the aversion of importers to cover their indebtedness in Europe at present prices of gold, together with the tightening of the money market, will have a tendency to keep down the premium, except by political agitation.

Government bonds, in which there is a large uncovered short interest by dealers and speculators are very dull, and those parties are not anxious to cover themselves.

Stocks were firmer early in the day, but parties who had bought at the greatest depression realized to-day, and the market looked very weak and dull. The cliques are doing all they can to sustain the market, but the outsids public is not disposed to buy.

Money is still easy, although tightening gradually. Business is very dull.

The New York Stock quotations to-day as received by Mr. Ph. R. Mertz, were as follows: Gold 144¼; 1881's, 113¼; 5-20's, 1862, 113¼; do 1864, 108¾; do 1865, 111; do new, 107¾; do 1867, 107¾; 10-40's, 108¼; Cleveland & Pittsburgh 85¾; Fort Wayne, 106; Western Union Telegraph 33⅝; Adams Express, 50¼; Erie, 46¼; New York Central, 124⅞; Reading, 89¾; Michigan Southern, 83; Chicago & Rock Island, 98¾; Chicago & North Western, 80½; do Preferred, 80⅝.

—The New York Tribune, of Thursday, says: A circular in the interest of the bulls was scattered boroadcast over town yesterday with a well cooked statment which showed that the business community would be short about eleven millions of coin by the first of January. To make this statement the amount to be shipped to Europe is placed at $23,700,000, and the $7,200,000 paid for Alaska is put down as being shipped. But two millions of the last amount was sent forward, and the balance was sold and added to the burden already carried by the bulls. The amount estimated to go forward is largely in excess of the probable shipments. The heavy amount of bonds sent within the past two months has already made us creditor to Europe, and the produce yet to be shipped will be so considerable that the best informed bankers think that the flow of specie will turn toward this country, and that no further loss of coin will be made this year. The demand for customs is now the only legitimate use for gold, and nothing but distrust can advance the already exorbitant price.

—Closing quotations received by James T. Brady & Co.:

Gold, 144¾; U. S. 6's, 1881's, 113¼; 5-20's, 1862, 113¼; 5-20's, 1864, 108⅞; 5-20's, 1865, 111; 10-40's, 108¼; 5-20's, January and July, '65, 107¾; 5-20's, January and July, '67 107¼; '68, 107⅝; June 7-30's, par less ¼ July 7-30's. do ¼ August 118¾; Sept. 118¼ Oct. 118¼; Union Pacific Railroad, 102; Central, 103.

CENTRAL LIVE-STOCK MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
FRIDAY, August 21, 1868.

CATTLE.

The arrivals of Cattle since the date of our last report (Wednesday evening) have been fair, although they are mainly of an inferior grade, yet the market has been fairly active, their having been a fair volume of business, in the aggregate. The Philadelphia dealers generally quit buying on Thursday, but there are a large number of stock growers here from Lancaster and other adjoining counties in the eastern part of the State, who bought pretty much all the stock cattle offering, and this, of course, made the market considerably better than it would otherwise have been. There was one drove of extra Southern Indiana steers on sale, said to have been the best offered here for some time, and it brought an extra price, eight and a quarter cents. Prime shipping Cattle may be quoted at 7 to 7,25, and medium 6,25 to 6,50. Stock Cattle range from 4 to 5,50, as to quality and condition.

There still seems to be prejudice against Illinois and Iowa stock, particularly against the former, even if the Cattle are sound and healthy, and do not give the slightest evidence of that much dreaded Cattle disease. Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana Cattle have the preference, and will bring relatively better prices than stock coming from other localities.

Clung to Klemen 80 head Ohio steers, averaging 1,400, at $80 per head.

Holmes, Lafferty & Co. sold 20 head of Western Reserve stock for Whittlesy to Jas. Aull at 5¾; 16 for same to Yohn at 7; 32 for Willey to Klemen, weighing 40,850 at 6⅝—$10 off: and 33 extra Indiana steers averaging 1,440, to Klemen at 8,25.

Smith & Talmage sold 39 head good Ohio steers, averaging 1,060, for J. W. Powers to Rowe at 6,25.

Hedges & Taylor sold 22 head for Forbes to Todd at 4,65; 20 for Ripley to McArdle at 5¾; 5 for Manning to Klemen at 5, and 2 bulls for same to same at $25 for per head; 23 for Launtz to Killinger & Co. at 4,25.

Dolan & Thompson 57 head prime Iowa steers, averaging 1,130, to Erisman & Co. at 6,25.

Orr & Williams sold 9 head heifers and steers for S. B. Aiken to Todd at 4,75.

Harvey to Styer 20 head of medium shipping stock at 5,75. Welsh to same buyer 35 head of common stock at 4,50.

Gurley to Klemen 20 head at 5, and 2 at 4,25.

Head to McArdle 58 head of mixed stock, weighing 59,450, at 5 to 6,50.

McGarvey to Hershy 21 head of common stockers at 4.

Shank to Black 21 head of fair stockers at 4,40.

Loyd & L. to Evans 19 head at 3 to 4,50.

Frazer to Yohn 18 head of good fat cattle, weighing 21,000, at 6,60.

True to Landis 6 head, weighing 21,000, at 6,25.

Dolan & Thompson to Chalfant 32 head, weighing 32,825—price not given.

Hedges & Taylor for Galligan to R. Black 19 head at 5,70.

SHEEP.

The Sheep market continues dull and depressed with a supply largely in excess of the demand though the offerings are mainly of an inferior quality. Prime fat Sheep, of which the supply is light, meet with a very good demand, and sell at relatively better prices than common and inferior grades; we are cognizant of one drove of extra Sheep averaging about 102 lbs having sold to-day at 5 cents. Ordinary to prime shipping Sheep may be quoted at 3½ to 4½ cents, and scalawags at almost any figure buyers are willing to give. The number on sale to-day was not so very large, but the demand was very light, the great majority of the eastern buyers have bought all they wanted this week.

Holmes Lafferty & Co., sold 202 for Brown to Pidcock & Co., at $1 per head; 130 Lambs for A. Martin to Kalthaler at $1,25 for the lot.

Smith & Talmage 196 head for Yeatman to W Hill at 3¾.

Hedges to Taylor sold 181 for Vanforsen to Pearce at 4½; 340 for Hamilton to Loyd at 2½; 100 for Maple to Aull & Myers at 3; 170 for Joint & Bro., to Geo. Marks at 4.

Orr & Williams sold 159 head of sheep for Campbell to Pratt at 3,25.

HOGS.

With continued light arrivals and a brisk demand, the market for Hogs continues very firm and prices especially for prime fat Hogs, were well maintained. York Hogs are a shade lower than in the early part of the week, ranging from 9 to 9,50, while Philadelphia Hogs may be quoted at from 10,50 to 10,75.

Holmes Lafferty & Co; sold 68 for McFadden to Crouse Emerick & Co; at 9,70; and 135 for John Blair, to same buyers at 9,50.

Singer & Imhoff bought 30 from Robinson at 10,50; 22 from W Hedges at $10,40; 54 from Voter & Co. at 10,60.

E. Smith sold 190 to Crouse, Emerick & Co. at 10,87½.

Crouse Emerick & Co., to Smith 130 to go to New York at 9; and 135 to Carnahan at 9,60.

PITTSBURGH PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTEE,
FRIDAY, August 21, 1868.

CRUDE—The market opened up a little firmer to-day, that is there was not the same pressure to sell that there was yesterday, while prices have undergone no quotable change. We heard of some offers to buy spot oil at 13, but there were no offers to sell that we could hear of; indeed the offerings are unusually light, although at the same time there are but few buyers at present prices. We can report a "line" of 4,000 bbls, 1,000 each for September, October, November and December, at 13; and 2,000 for September, sellers option, at $5, delivered on cars at Venango City. September, alone, is offered at 13½ here, with buyers at 13, and the last four months, in the absence of sales, may be quoted at 12½ to 12¾.

REFINED—The market for Refined opened up considerably stronger in the early part of the day, and August delivery advanced from a half to three quarters of a cent, with sales reported at 31¾, against 31 to 31¼, the closing quotations last evening. The sales, however, were unusually large, aggregating ten thousand barrels, mainly for August; though the market was again weak and "offish" this evening, the demand, particularly for the late months, having fallen off, and August was also reported weak. The sales were: 9,000 bbls, in various lots, for August at 31½ to 31¾c; 500 for the first half September, at 32c, and 500 for October at 32½c. We are cognizant of an offer to sell September, October and November at 32½c, without finding buyers, and September, alone was also offered at the same figure, with a similar result. We heard of a large transaction which was made during the early part of the week, but which has not heretofore been reported: 12,500 bbls, 2,500 each for August, September, October, November and December, at 33½c; this is the heaviest operation we have had to record for some time, and the seller, certainly has reason to congratulate himself, as that delivery has declined since the sale was made nearly two cents.

PITTSBURGH METAL MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
FRIDAY, August 21, 1868.

The metal market has been quiet this week, and the sales comparatively small, which is owing mainly to the fact that stocks are very much reduced, and there is but little offering. The demand, however, is not as strong as it was last week and the week previous, while prices are without quotable change. We quote the following sales.

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE.

The late commencement at the Theological Seminary at Andover, Massachusetts, was an occasion of much interest. Forty young men graduated. In connection with these exercises, the Alumni held their usual annual meeting. Instead of a special address or sermon, as customary in former years, questions were discussed that are addressing themselves with great force to the Christian thought of the world. We gather some thoughts from the Congregationalist on the topics discussed. The first was upon "Popular Amusements." Rev. Mr. Mead protested, in an essay of great power, against the idea that more abundant amusements are necessary. He assumed 1. Christians must assert the essential wickedness of all amusements which are enjoyed only by depraved taste. 2. They must caution against amusements which, if innocent possibly in themselves, are of evil from their associations and concomitants. 3. They must studiously avoid denouncing as wicked those which are neither right or wrong, while, 4th, they must take care to assert the truth that needless and excessive devotion to amusements in themselves innocent is wrong. Dr. E. Beecher, when the question was thrown open for general discussion, thought there existed necessity for meeting this question of amusement. He favored the idea of an ideal character, until enthusiasm is awakened. Its pursuit will thus be the highest pleasure and sensual pleasures will be abandoned. The next topic was, "Is it desirable for pastors to preach more than one sermon on a Sunday." An essay in the affirmative was read by Rev. Mr. Rankin in which he brought forward and answered the following objections: 1. "The unity of the impression is destroyed by two sermons." 2. "Two sermons a Sunday will kill the minister." 3. "The people have not strength to hear two sermons a day and profit by them." 4. "With one sermon there will be more and better Bible study." Having disposed of these various objections, he argued in favor of two sermons: 1. It will secure the better observance of the Lord's day. 2. More hearers will be accommodated. Some cannot attend if there is only one sermon. 3. It is the only way of maintaining our denominational position. Other churches will be open and we shall gradually lose our congregations. 4. Two sermons a day are essential to preserve the pre-eminence of the New England pulpit. Rev. Mr. Barbour then read an essay in favor of one sermon on Sunday, arguing: 1. In order to give proper time for pastoral duties he should be spared the second sermon. The making of one is a full week's work. 2. It is due also to the people. They need something good. They have not time to hear and digest more than one. 3. The truth itself demands but one discourse of a Sunday. It will prove more effective if compacted and sharpened by a week's labor on each sermon, than if two verbose and emasculated discourses are preached.

A correspondent of the Liberal Christian giving an account of his trip West to New England, in passing through New Jersey, utters a doleful complaint of the state of religion "down in Jersey." He represents the land wholly given over to idolatry, because not a single Unitarian Church or minister is to be found between Philadelphia and New York, and but one or two feeble Universalist centers. He thinks a terrible weight of superstition rests upon the land; the old bitter metaphisics of Princeton oppresses the heart, blunts the conscience, or provokes the contempt of the people. The New York Christian Advocate suggests that the Unitarians should support one home missionary in New Jersey in addition to the (only one,) Foreign Missionary, Rev. Mr. Dall, in India.

Hon. N. B. Judd, the distinguished Republican Representative in Congress for the Chicago district, has given Rev. F. S. De Hass, pastor of the Metropolitan Methodist Episcopal Church, Washington City, D. C., one thousand dollars in order to secure a "Chicago Memorial Window" in that elegant structure.

During the late camp meeting at Sing Sing, New York, from two hundred and fifty to three hundred professed conversion. At the love feast, on Thursday morning week, the day the meeting closed, three hundred and eighty persons spoke within the space of an hour and a half.

The Richmond Dispatch represents the ministry of the Northern Methodist Church as no better than horse thieves or bounty jumpers, and that this is the verdict of nine-tenths of the people of Virginia. "The people," it says, "cordially detest the whole concern—Bishops, preachers and horse stealers, (if this class does not include the other classes). Yet these Radical parsons force themselves upon an unwilling people for political purposes, and not only steal the livery of the court of heaven to serve the devil in, but would, if they could, steal the churches themselves." No better evidence could be given of the necessity of sending missionaries to this benighted land than the foregoing. No wonder poor, blighted Virginia is behind the other recently reconstructed States of the South.

Rev. A. M. Stewart, formerly, we believe, pastor of a United or Reformed Presbyterian Church in this city, and Chaplain of Gen. Rowley's regiment, reports in the American Presbyterian, a Sacramental meeting at Austin, Nevada, at which Presbyterians, Methodists, Lutherans, Episcopalians and Baptists sat down together at the table of the Lord. The service was conducted in the Methodist Episcopal Church, the only one in the place. It was a delightful scene of Christian union.

The American Congregational Union during the last year has done more to assist feeble churches to obtain places of worship than any year preceding. Grants of money have been paid, the past year, to seventy churches, and pledged to thirty-eight more; while a long list of additional applicants were laid over to the beginning of the present year.

The Protestant Churchman requests its correspondents to refrain from using the phrase "the Church," as it is a "part of the numerous progeny of High Church Popery." The editors desire that "Evangelical men will cease to use it in their writings," and use instead "our Church," or "the Episcopal Church."

That notorious character Henry Clay Dean has written a book upon the "Crimes of the War." The Baltimore Christian Advocate (Southern Methodist) gives it three columns of laudation. But that Advocate eschews politics!

Twenty-five new churches will be commenced or completed this year in Chicago, at a cost of a million of dollars. The Detroit Tribune says: "We know of no place on the continent that needs them more." To which the Christian Advocate retorts, "Chicago has the grace to feel the need of them. Her rapid immigration warrants the need and the supply."

The corner stone of the Chapel of the Divinity School of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the Diocese of Massachusetts, was laid in Cambridge, with impressive ceremonies by Bishop Eastburn, recently. The building will be the gift of Robert Mason, Esq., of Boston. It will be of the Gothic order of architecture, cruciform in shape, and with tower, spire, and east and west porches. The capacity of the building will reach nearly five hundred sittings.

A new Baptist Church, composed of colored persons, was recently organized in the usual manner, in Adrian, Michigan. It is to be known as the "Second Baptist Church of Adrian."

It is noteworthy, the universal regret expressed by religious journals of the different denominations, at the death of the venerable "Apostle of Temperance," Rev. Dr. John Marsh, recently deceased. The Christian Advocate, of New York, thinks few men have been more respected or more widely known throughout the country than Dr. Marsh. Enthusiastic in his mission, catholic in spirit, welcoming any laborer in the great field, and readily seizing upon any new phase of the temperance reformation, his name will remain inseparably connected with the history of the cause in all future time.

THE SPANISH FEVER, which now prevails so fatally among the cattle brought on to the north from Texas, it is asserted, was observed fourteen years ago. In the spring and summer of 1854, when Texas cattle were first brought into Illinois, it is stated that a disease broke out among the droves, resembling yellow fever in the human race, and proved so contagious that all along the track where they traveled the farmers lost a great portion of their stock in a few days. So serious was the damage that the people of Southwestern Missouri held meetings and took measures to forcibly prevent the passing of any more Texas cattle through the country. It is not stated when or how this particular epidemic of 1854 disappeared, but the circumstances attending it have created a general impression at the West that the existing disease is also imported from Texas.

◆

THE Indian troubles in Western Kansas are becoming terribly serious. They threaten to exterminate the settlements on all the rivers and creeks in that region. Women and children are fleeing to the towns for safety. They are reported to have defeated a detachment of soldiers. Governor Crawford is organizing and despatching militia to the relief of settlers.

◆

THE Southwestern section of Iowa is scourged with the grasshopper plague. They swarm in myriads, literally devouring the young corn crop. At Glenwood and White Cloud the sun was obscured by moving swarms of grasshoppers on the 16th instant, and all the corn fields were alive with them.

PENNSYLVANIA, perhaps it is not generally known even within her own borders, has a greater length of railroad than any other State in the Union. In round numbers, she possesses four thousand miles to New York's three thousand, or one mile of rail to every square mile of her territory.

THE Treasury Department estimates that not more than $31,500,000 of Seven-thirties are outstanding, and that enough of that class will fail to be returned to pay the entire expense of issue.

☞ THE APPETITE FOR

Tobacco Destroyed!

Leave off Chewing and Smoking the Poisonous Weed, Tobacco.

One box of ORTON'S PREPARATION is WARRANTED to destroy the appetite for tobacco in any person, no matter how strong the habit may be. ☞ IF IT FAILS IN ANY CASE THE MONEY WILL BE REFUNDED. It is almost impossible to break off from the use of tobacco by the mere exercise of the will. Something is needed to assist nature in overcoming a habit so firmly rooted; with the help of the preparation there is not the least trouble. Hundreds have used it who are willing to bear witness to the fact that ORTON'S PREPARATION completely destroys the appetite for tobacco and leaves the person as free from any desire for it as before he commenced its use. It is perfectly safe and harmless in all cases. The Preparation acts directly upon the same glands and secretions affected by tobacco, and through these upon the blood, thoroughly cleansing the poison of tobacco from the system, and thus allaying the unnatural cravings of tobacco.

NO MORE HANKERING FOR TOBACCO AFTER USING ORTON'S PREPARATION! RECOLLECT IT IS WARRANTED. BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS!

RECOMMENDATIONS.

The following are a few selected from the multitude of recommendations in our possession:

[From W. P. Heald, Esq., Bangor, Me.]

BANGOR, Me., April 24, 1868.

I hereby certify that I have used tobacco for thirty years past, and for the last fifteen years I have used two pounds per month. I have made attempts to leave off at different times. I have left off one year at a time, but always continued to hanker for it until I used Orton's Preparation, which has completely cured me of the appetite for tobacco. I would recommend all who are affected with this terrible habit to try the preparation, which will certainly cure it if the directions are followed.

W. P. HEALD.

[From E. W. Adkins, Knoxville, Tenn.]

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., August 5, 1867.

This is to certify that I had used tobacco to such an extent that my health had become greatly impaired, and my whole system deranged and broken down. In June, 1867, I purchased one box of Orton's Preparation, and after using it I found that I was completely cured. I have not had any hankering or desire for tobacco since using the preparation. I believe it to be all that it is recommended, and I would advise all who wish to quit the use of tobacco to try one box of Orton's Preparation.

E. W. ADKINS.

[From John Morrill, Bangor, Me.]

BANGOR, Me., March 24, 1868.

This is to certify that I have used tobacco for eighteen years; have tried many times to leave off, but have suffered so much from a dizziness in my head, and gnawing at my stomach, that I have soon given up the trial. A short time since a friend induced me to try Orton's Preparation (sold by you.) I have done so, and am completely cured. I did not in the least hanker after tobacco, either to smoke or chew, after I began to use the Preparation.

For SMOKE AND HOT AIR FLUES, dispensing with the use of Stoves and Fires in or about the Passenger or Baggage Cars, with the attachment to graduate the heat to any temperature that may be desired without the possibility of firing the car or cars to which the Jacket may be attached.

Having obtained of the United States Letters Patent for a Safety Jacket which is warranted to resist the most intense heat that may be applied to it in the position and purpose for which it is intended. It is a sure protection from accidents by fire, originating from defective flues, or where iron pipes are used as conductors for smoke or heat. It is applicable to all piping that may become overheated, and is warranted to give perfect satisfaction where wood or other combustible material may be placed in close proximity thereto. I am now ready to apply my invention to stores, dwellings, facteries, ships, steamboats, railroad cars, &c., wherever pipes as conductors are made dangerous by being overheated and security desised. I will sell, on application, rights to manufacture or to use the above invention; also, territorial rights, to such as may wish to engage in sellling privileges, either by State or county.

Water and Gas Pipe.—A four inch water pipe and gas pipe are being laid on Harmony street, the dividing line between the Birmingham boroughs.

Assault and Battery.—Anna Rosewell made information before Alderman Taylor, charging her husband, Henry Rosewell, with assault and battery. He was arrested and held for a hearing.

Dog Recovered.—John Bell made information before Alderman Humbert yesterday, alleging that a dog belonging to him was in the possession of George Murray, a colored man. A search warrant was issued and the dog recovered.

A Bad Boy.—Antone Hass made information before the Mayor yesterday, charging his son, Martin Hass, with assault and battery. He alleges that the boy struck him and knocked him down. A warrant was issued for the arrest of the rash boy.

Excursion Party.—Professor Jillson, Dr. Baelz, J. H. Henderson, Esq., J. H. Hopkins, Esq., and several other gentlemen well known in this community, leave for the end of the Union Pacific Railroad and the Western gold fields on an excursion of pleasure on Monday next.

Democratic Meeting.—Quite a large Democratic meeting was held last evening on Fifth street, in front of the GAZETTE building, a stand having been erected on the opposite side of the street. A. J. Baker, Esq., presided. Speeches were made by Hon. W. F. Johnston, A. J. Baker, D. D. Bruce and Wm. Lynn. A brass band was in attendance.

Tobacco and Cigars.—At John Megraw's, No. 45 Hand street, you will find the best Cigars and Tobacco to be found in the city. This house is one of the largest in the city and can sell as low, if not lower, than any other house here. Wholesale and retail dealers and country merchants should call at this house, examine his stock and get his prices before purchasing elsewhere. SD

Suggestive.—Passing up Penn street yesterday, we observed a county official standing at the railway crossing, apparently "waiting for something to turn up." As that is considered one of the most dangerous places in the city, and it being the duty of the official referred to to "inquire after what manner" fatal accidents occur, it was suggested that he might be "looking for a job."

The walking match was virtually brought to a close yesterday afternoon at five o'clock, by Miles retiring. Keefer continues, hoping to make the hundred hours. He appeared quite lively last night after having concluded the 80th hour. He will be declared the winner beyond doubt, although Miles holds that he had good reasons for retiring, which will be duly made public.

Apollo Institute and Seminary.—We bespeak attention to the advertisement elsewhere of the opening of the course of studies at this school on the 7th proximo. Mr. and Mrs. Macrum will co-work in the conduct of the school. No more accomplished or devoted educators can be found. The situation, No. 80 Fourth street, is eligible. If patronage follows merit the school will surely prosper.

Collision.—A freight train on the Allegheny Valley Railroad, bound north, collided yesterday morning with a special train running south, a few miles above the city. The engines were both somewhat injured, and two freight cars were broken. The fireman of the extra train was caught between the tender and the engine, and had his foot crushed and leg broken. None of the passengers were hurt.

Larceny by Bailee.—Mr. M. F. Herron, of the firm of Robb & Herron, made information yesterday, before Alderman McMasters, charging W. H. Sturgeon with larceny by bailee. It is alleged that the accused went to a business house in the city, and representing that he was collector for Robb & Herron, collected a bill of fifteen dollars due them, and now refused to give up the money. A warrant was issued.

Bill Posters War Resumed.—The war among the bill posters, which raged to such an extent some months since, we see has been resumed. John Trimble made information before the Mayor yesterday, charging James Thackeray with malicious mischief. He alleges that Thackeray posted a bill on one of his bill boards, covering over and defacing bills he had posted there. A warrant was issued for the arrest of the accused.

Malicious Mischief.—Mr. W. C. Shields, of Allegheny made information before Alderman Buitler yesterday charging his son John Shields, R. Henderson and several other boys with malicious mischief. He alleges that on the 14th inst. the accused went to his stable took out his horse and hitching him to a buggy drove him to Jacks Run to a pic-nic, and that they injured the horse to such an extent that he has not been able to use him since. Warrants were issued for the young hopefuls.

The Testimony in the reported poisoning case of E. P. Lanier, who died in Allegheny on Thursday, fully sets forth the fact, as predicted in yesterday's GAZETTE, that the deceased did not die from the effect of poison, but from natural disease. The unhappy suspicion that the wife had administered poison is thus set aside, and the sympathy of the entire community is with the lady. Journalists should be very careful not to publish such rumors before the facts of the case are fully developed. Mrs. Lanier is an excellent Christian lady, and it is a pity that she should have rested under the foul suspicion for even a moment.

Sudden Death—Coroner's Inquest.

Under the above caption we published yesterday an account of the sudden death of Mr. E. T. Lainer, of Allegheny City, and stated that a jury had been impannelled to hold an inquest and adjourned. Pursuant to adjournment the jury assembled yesterday at the Coroner's office, when the following testimony was elicited:

Dr. John Hamilton, sworn—I was called yesterday to see deceased. On inspection of the body there was nothing that would lead to the supposition that he died of external injuries. Symptoms indicated that the disease was in the stomach, and that was the first place examined. On opening the abdomen the bowels were considerably inflamed, and that portion next the stomach was very highly inflamed, and the stomach was in a congested condition, although the mucus membrance was preserved intact. The disease was located in the lower part of the stomach where the bowels connect. The bowels generally showed a congested condition. We examined the swallow and found that it had also been irritated. The kidneys were both found to have been inflamed in part, and pus was found in both of them. The liver was not in a healthy condition. The lung and heart, so far as the examination went, showed nothing abnormal. I saw no special symptoms of poison. From all the evidence I have before me and from the post mortem appearances there was nothing that would lead me to the conclusion that poison had been used. The desease in the kidneys was sufficient to cause death.

Dr. L. H. Willard, sworn—I had been attending wife of deceased, before he was taken sick. I arrived at the house at half-past eleven A. M. 13th instant. Some of the inmates told me that Mr. L. had been taken ill about half past seven o'clock with vomiting and purging. I thought when I saw him that he had cholera morbus. I supplied the usual remedies; he still complained of great pain in the stomach, and considerable nausea. The medicines I gave him seemed to have the desired effect. The purging ceased and he slept. The next morning the vomiting had returned and he had intense pain in the region of the stomach. There seemed to be a retention of urine. The vomiting was a dark color and bloody in appearance, there being no bile with it. These were about the symptoms he had on the 14th, 15th, and the morning of the 16th, when the nurse called my attention to a substance he had vomited, which appeared to be shreds of the mucus membrane tone off and thrown up. These symptoms led me to believe that some irritative substances had been introduced into the stomach. On the 17th and 18th these symptoms continued, and there was more blood mixed with the matter thrown from the stomach, and on the evening of the 19th he died; these symptoms continued up to the time of his death.

Mr. W. M. Hill, sworn—I nursed the deceased, was with him the first ten nights of his sickness and frequently thereafter, until he died. He was troubled with insatiate thirst the first night he wanted water all the time. He complained of fever and a burning at the stomach, and had violent retching and hiccoughed incessantly. He drank a little chicken broth the third or fourth day.

J. P. Guthrie, sworn—I called to see the deceased on Sabbath afternoon and staid till 7 o'clock Monday morning. We gave him a teaspoonful of port wine in a glass of water. He complained of a pain in his stomach, said he was very sore.

John Boyne, sworn—Tuesday morning, the 18th, I first went to see deceased; I found him in great pain. He did not vomit any but coughed up a great deal of black mucus. Deceased told Mr. Lang in the presence of witness, Wednesday morning, that he had not taken any poison to the best of his knowledge. He had neither eat nor drank anything that had a peculiar taste that he could not account for. His wife was sick at the same time. She was brought into his room before he died.

James O'Brien, sworn—The testimony of this witness was corroborative of what others had testified to.

The testimony here concluded, and the inquest adjourned to meet Thursday evening at four o'clock.

Shocking Accident.

A fatal accident occurred Friday morning about nine o'clock on the Allegheny Valley Railroad, at the foot of Allegheny street, Twelfth ward. At the time stated a passenger train was backing from the main track to a siding, and several little boys, among whom was William Miller, aged six years, were riding upon the platform. He caught hold of the iron rail at the end of the car, and was swinging himself upon the platform, when another little boy, who had climbed up before him, put his hand upon the head of young Miller and pushed him back. The unfortunate boy had only one foot upon the step, and he immediately lost his partial foot-hold, and at the same time lost his grasp on the railing. He fell under the train upon the track, and the wheels catching one of his feet, he was drawn lengthwise upon the track, and before the train could be stopped two of the cars had passed over him, cutting him literally to pieces. His entrails were strewn along the ground, and his brains covered the rail for some distance. So horribly was the body crushed and mangled that the remains had to be gathered into a blanket and tied up before they could be removed. His father, employed in one of the rolling mills near by, heard of the accident and hastened to the spot. He insisted on tearing open the blanket to see the torn fragments of his boy. His friends prevented him, and conducted him to his home on Pine street, Tenth ward. Coroner Clawson was notified and held an inquest on the mangled remains at four o'clock yesterday, when the jury returned a verdict of accidental death.

It is a great wonder that such accidents are not more frequent. The employés of the road are said to be very attentive and careful, but despite all their efforts to prevent it, children will climb upon trains when in motion.

Officers Elected.

At a recent meeting of the Grant Club of the Fifth ward, Allegheny, the following officers were elected:

President—Hon. John E. Parke.

Vice Presidents—Joseph Walton, Alex. Patterson.

Secretary—C. Townsend.

Treasurer—Geo. J. Parkin.

The President then appointed the following committees:

Executive Committee—Samuel J. Kay, R. F. Bauman, John Heath, Samuel Davis, Simeon Bulford, William Heagy, S. S. G. Thompson, Henry Paulus, Alex. McKee, Wm. J. Caughey.

Finance Committee—S. S. G. Thompson, Isaac Stewart, J. P. Kennedy, D. E. Adams, S. J. Kay, J. Reed, John Parkhill.

Speakers, Music and Meetings Committee—B. F. Jennings, W. C. Cooke, J. E. Brady, W. R. Fitzsimmons, E. J. Wilkins.

The Club meets every Tuesday night.

Seventh and Eighth Wards Club.

The Grant and Colfax Club of the above wards held a very full special meeting last evening, in the School House on Franklin street, for the purpose of making arrangements to join in the proposed demonstration in honor of Gen. Schurz. The various Committees were instructed to procure banners, lamps and badges for the use of those joining in the procession. Not only the members of the Club, but all friendly to the election of Grant and Colfax, are cordially invited to meet at the School House on Monday evening at half-past six o'clock, and take part in the proceedings.

Released on Bail.—Morris Strauss, the boy who was committed to jail some two weeks since to answer a charge of felonious assault and battery, for cutting John Bert, procured the required bail and was released yesterday.

Pittsburgh Female College.

We have frequently invited the attention of our readers to the claims of this leading Ladies' School of our State, but as we have many new readers, and as the time for the opening of the Fall Term is near at hand, we copy, with a personal endorsement, the following from the Pittsburgh Christian Advocate of this week:

PITTSBURGH FEMALE COLLEGE.

There are but few of our readers who have not learned something of the Pittsburgh Female College. Many, however, have no adequate idea of its large and beautiful buildings, its ample Faculty, and of its unsurpassed facilities in all the solid and ornamental branches of a liberal education. For the information of all who have daughters to educate, we condense a few of the more important items.

The buildings, 148 feet in length by 100 in width, are among the most substantial as well as beautiful and convenient, in all their appointments, in the country. The Chapel, Parlor, Dining Hall and Library are spacious and fitted up in excellent style. The school room and those for boarding pupils are large, airy, well lighted and ventilated, and admirably adapted for their intended purposes. A large number of workmen are engaged in repainting, graining, and varnishing much of the interior wood work, and Messrs. M'Farland & Collins are furnishing some of the halls with new matting and carpets. Thus beautified and furnished, the buildings are an honor to the city, and to the Trustees as well.

Not the least important point about the college is its admirable location—just between the two bridges which are the great thoroughfares between the two cities; within ten minutes walk of the termini of all the railroads, save one, and of almost every important point in Pittsburgh; it is, nevertheless, as quiet and retired as though in a small country town. The pupils are thus saved from the din and clatter of business thoroughfares, and the jostle of the crowds which throng the more public streets. The trees which line Hancock street not only add to the beauty of the location, but afford a most delightful promenade during the hours of recreation. The city has no equally advantageous location for a school.

Every teacher employed in the Institution has had from five to twenty-five years' experience. No pains or expense are spared in the selection of teachers, and those only are chosen who have made teaching a profession, and who by previous culture and experience have demonstrated their fitness for the work. The most ample arrangements have been made for the coming year by the employment of twenty-two teachers.

The course of study is thorough and extensive, and arranged with great care. It is confidently believed that in this respect it is superior to most institutions and second to none. The methods of teaching are modern and thorough, as has been evidenced by the searching examinations through which the pupils have passed—examinations conducted not simply in the presence of committees appointed by the Conference and Trustees—but in repeated instances the classes have been examined for hours by some of the best educators in the city, unconnected with the College.

Some of our lady readers will be interested in learning that, not only in the solid but in the ornamental branches, the College offers rare facilities. It is especially so in Music. Five teachers are employed in this department. Pupils can devote their entire time to Music, and secure daily lessons, if desired. While the advantages of exclusively music schools can thus be enjoyed, there are the added advantages of association with a large number of teachers and pupils, gathered from different and distant parts, and the peculiar advantages afforded by the city in the matter of Concerts, Lectures, &c. Prof. Gustave Blessner, the distinguished composer and teacher, has charge of the department.

Owing to the liberal policy pursued by the trustees, whose single aim is to build up an institution of the highest grade, and to put a finished education within the reach of the largest number of really deserving young ladies, the expenses are far less than many institutions having fewer teachers and facilities, and little, if any, more than small country seminaries. While every appointment of the College is of the first order, the expenses are less than one half those of many other schools.

We can most heartily commend the College to those who desire for their daughters an institution which combines through culture with the influences of a Christian home, and are pleased to learn that the prospects of the next term, which commences September 2d, are of the most encouraging character. The boarding department is filling up rapidly. Among the Faculty and pupils will be found representatives from Maine to Nebraska. We bid it God speed in its grand and glorious work.

Robbery in Allegheny—Clothing Store Entered by Burglars.

The clothing store of Mr. George Dorch, No. 123 Federal street, Allegheny, was entered by burglars, Thursday night or early Friday morning, and a large quantity of clothing and furnishing goods abstracted therefrom. An entrance to the cellar under the store was gained through a small coal hole on a little alley in the rear of the building. From the cellar they gained access to the store room by cutting a hole through a door at the head of a stairway leading from the cellar, by which means they were able to open the door. Once in the store they proceeded to erect screens across the front windows so that they could operate without being seen. They then ransacked all the drawers on one side of the store, made very judicious selections of fine white shirts, underclothing, neck-ties, collars, suspenders and other goods in that line. They also selected some fine suits of custom made clothing, just ready for delivery, together with a number of suits from the stock of ready made clothing, the exact number of which cannot at present be ascertained. The thieves seem to have worked very leisurely, as several pairs of pants, besides coats and vests, which had evidently been "tried on" were found strewn over the store. They also inspected a large drawer filled with trimmings, and when they had satisfied themselves with articles in that line, scattered the remaining contents over the floor. One of the parties left an old suit of clothes, and their appearance would indicate that the owner was sadly in need of a "raise" of some kind. After having taken their choice of goods, the thieves removed the lock from the door in the rear of the store, and left the premises unobserved.

The robbery was not discovered until the next morning when one of the salesmen opened the store, notwithstanding there is a private watchman employed by the merchants of that locality.

Magazines.—Mr. Gildenfenny, at No. 45 Fifth street, has sent us the September numbers of those two standard fashion books "Godey and "Peterson," both of which open with huge fashion plates, gorgeous as usual, and both contain the usual amount of the kind of literature for which they are renowned. We have also received from Messrs. Hurd & Houghton their first class Juvenile Magazine "The Riverside," and from J. B. Lippencott & Co. the September Lippencott, which is unusually good, and from the publisher the "London Review."

We have received from Mr. J. William Pope "The U. S. Race," one of his widely known campaign songs, such as are familiar as the face of the author at every Republican speakers' stand in the neighborhood. Mr. Pope has also sent us a new ballad of which he is the author, both of words and music. "Allegheny" is we think the sweetest of this composer's songs and possesses a local interest, not only on account of its association with the river, but also because it is dedicated to one of the most charming of Pittsburgh's young ladies.

Pittsburgh Manufacturers—A few Words About the Premium Trunk Factory.

Few of our readers have any proper idea of the extent and magnitude of the trunk manufacturing busines, of this city. It has often been remarked in these columns that the public hardly recognize the fact that outside of iron, glass, steel and coal, the city should have reputation abroad; that the multitude of other trade articles escape attention. Within a few years, under the impulse of young blood and enterprise the trunk trade has arisen from insignificance to occupy a high position, and no longer is a vast trade suffered to pass our doors to enrich rival houses of Philadelphia, Boston or New York. Here at home we have factories and business houses engaged in the trunk and valise business which are so perfectly organized, so complete in all their departments, so carefully managed and conducted as to compete successfully with any eastern or western contemporaries, and prove a matter of just pride to the city which contains them.

It is not our purpose to-day to speak of all the more prominent houses of this character, but to single out one to show how extensive has grown the trade. Nearly everybody is acquainted with the Premium Trunk Factory, No. 104 Wood street, and its active, shrewd, enterprising and goaheadative proprietor, Mr. Joseph Liebler. This gentleman, who is at the head of this large establishment as sole proprietor, is one of our youngest business men, and preeminently represents the self-made manufacturers of the city. Commencing but a few years ago he has succeeded just in proportion to his large measure of capability and enterprise. He has gradually but surely extended his business and enlarged his facilities for manufacturing, and to-day finds himself at the head of a house transacting annually a large trade and standing most prominent in that particular department of manufacture. His success, though great, was by no means undeserving. It was worked for zealously and came as the just reward of well directed exertions. We have no figures at hand to show the enormous business annually transacted by this house, but that it is immense is evidenced from the constant shipment of goods and from the great popularity which the Premium Trunk Factory enjoys. The great pains taken in order that nothing but the very best quality of material and workmanship shall enter into the trunks, valises and carpet-bags which leave the establishment, has been the best guarantee for its continued prosperity.

We cannot imagine why dealers in trunks and goods in that line generally should direct their orders to the East, as they are afforded a better quality of goods here at home at Leibler's, at less prices. They economize not only by securing popular prices, but likewise save large items of expense in the way of fare, freight, hotel expenses and time. Hence it is clearly apparent that they save money by making all of their purchases at No. 104 Wood street, the recognized trunk headquarters of Western Pennsylvaaia. In view of the fall trade which promises to open brightly, Mr. Liebler has in store one of the largest and most carefully selected and varied stocks to be found this side of New York. It embraces all styles of traveling, Saratoga, family, bed-chamber, and ordinary trunks, patent and sole leather valises, hand sacques, carpet bags, portfolios and everything in the line of trade, so that neither a wholesale or retail customer need leave the house without making a selection. The prices have been marked down to suit the stringency of the money market and great bargains are offered. Having had long personal acquaintance with Mr. Liebler, we are glad to witness the rapid advance he has made in reaching the first place in his business and bespeak for him in the future a continuance of the large share of public patronage which has hitherto been directed towards him, and of which he is so eminently deserving.

Steinway and Burdett in Collins Township.

A gentleman residing near East Liberty, the author of the charming "Wayside Sketches in the Old World," has just purchased at Kleber and Bro.'s warerooms, a splendid three stringed agraffe Stienway square grand piano, and, also, one of those wonderful Burdett organs, which of late have excited the unequaled admiration of the musical world. Of Stienway, the Piano King of the world, it were superfluous to say aught in praise—he stands at this time without a rival anywhere, and his fame is co-extensive with civilization herself. No maker presumes at the present day to vie with Stienway. His pianos are the highest realization of the musical artists beau ideal

Equally distinguished in his peculiar line that of organ building, is Mr. Bardett, whose great improvements crowned by Carpenter's lately patented (June 1st, 1867,) human voice stop, have placed the Burdett organ first in the estimation of all unbiased persons. The utterances of this organ are touching and sympathetic like the tones of some inspired vocalist, and we may add that the combined effect of the Stienway Piano and the Burdett Organ is as nearly heavenly music as is attainable this side of the grave. In the interest of music we can only wish that the above example may find many followers.

Lady Readers!

Have you seen the new sewing machine? The latest, the handsomest, the most simple in construction—the best. The sewing machine that bore off the palm at the Paris Exposition for family sewing over nearly a hundred competitors! We mean the Weed "Family Favorite." There are springing up innumerable numbers of these irrepressible "Weeds" in the various households, which are indeed laurels in the hands of their fair owners. It is astonishing to notice the progress this new prodigy is making in this city; and that, too, despite the determined, untiring efforts of a long established competition. The agency is at No. 112 Grant street. It will cost them nothing to look at it; it will cost them nothing to try it, and none need ever feel obligated to keep it if it does not give perfect satisfaction. It may be paid for in monthly installments. Surely, such terms are a sufficient evidence that it is all that is claimed for it.

Preparing for the Fall Trade.

Dennison and Heckert, the well known trimming merchants, No. 27, Fifth street, have prepared themselves for the opening of the fall trade with a very large, full and finely assorted stock of trimmings, hosiery, gloves, yarns, embroideries, lace goods, gents and ladies under clothing and notions generally. Their special ten per cent discount on cash sales will continue during the forthcoming thirty days to close out the entire summer stock to make room for fresh invoices. Either wholesale or retail purchasers will find it to their advantage to bestow a share of their patronage on this house. Their prices are always rated amongst the most inducing and reasonable.

West Virginia Oil Regions.

The producers and dealers in West Virginia Lubricating Oil recently held a meeting at Parkersburg in reference to the many imitations that are now put upon the markets and sold as pure Natrona oil. Circulars calling attention to this fact, and giving the method of detecting these spurious oils, can be had from Messrs. Wesley, Wilson & Co., No. 167 Wood street. With the advent of cold weather these imitations will become thick and clotted, and cannot be used at all. Purchasers would do well by securing a supply, and thus anticipate the further advance that will follow when these fraudulent imitations chill.

For bridal tours, Liebler, No. 104 Wood street, manufactures the best trunks to be obtained in the city, and at the most reasonable prices.

Most Bitters of the present day that are loudly puffed through the newspapers as having great curative properties are vile compounds and base impositions, containing no medicinal virtues whatever, and are really very poor whisky beverages, and, instead of acting as a stimulant and tonic, have a tendency to weaken the stomach by entirely destroying the coating. The public should therefore be very cautious and purchase none but Roback's Stomach Bitters, which have stood the test as a remedial agent for many years, and are really as their name indicates, a stomach bitters and not a beverage. They combine the properties of the best tonic and a stimulant—a laxative, an efficient and anti-bilious agent and the best stomachic known to the world, and when taken in conjunction with Roback's Blood Pills, are the safest and surest preventive against all bilious derangements, thoroughly regulating the whole system and giving tone to the digestive organs.

They are highly recommended as an invigorating tonic to mothers while nursing, increasing the flow of milk, and for convalescents, to restore the prostration which always follows long-continued sickness, they are unsurpassed. No household should consider themselves safe from the ordinary maladies without these invaluable medicines. They can be obtained of any druggist. TTSF

We reply that they are two separate preparations of wonderful curative abilities for cramp, cholera, vomiting and similar complaints, although the latter is intended for children and infants and the former for adults. Those medicines are destined to become popular in all sections of the country.

GENUINE

GLYCERINE TOILET SOAP,

MANUFACTURED BY

PETER SQUIRE, 277 Oxford street' London.

This Soap has been, by a peculiar process, freed from the excess of alkali almost invariably found even in the purest Soaps, and at the same time it is made to take up a large quantity of Glycerine (40 per cent). It is to this latter substance that it chiefly owes its soothing quality—softening the skin, preserving the complexion, preventing chapping and the unpleasant roughness experienced in cold weather. It is found most useful in allaviating the irritation produced by dryness of the skin. On account of its great purity it recommends itself to all persons that suffer from the use of common Soaps; for delicate skins it is the only Soap that can be tolerated. It is particularly useful for cleansing diseased skins, where the irritation produced by ordinary Soaps causes so much inconvenience. It is the most agreeable Shaving Soap that can be used, leaving the skin soft and comfortable. The Soaps usually sold as Glycerine Soaps contain little or no Glycerine. It is only necessary to apply the tongue to the surface and the genuine will be distinguished by the sweet taste. Agent,

SIMON JOHNSTON,

Corner Smithfield and Fourth Streets.

Also, agent for SARG'S VIENNA GLYCERINE SOAP. au15:TTS
